

A Self-Evaluation

If I were to describe my performance, I would say its enthusiastic. I'm eager to learn unfamiliar processes and ask a lot of questions. My primary focus is to learn and contribute as much as I can while I'm there. I'd say I'm progressing smoothly. Though, I can be a little impulsive in some respects, and I need to spend more time there. My goal is to address my impulsiveness and have a more streamlined schedule so I can give my internship more attention.

Though, I do feel like I have made a significant improvement in my confidence and judgement. Early in the internship I was nervous about making mistakes. Since many of the items were donated, I didn't want to ruin them. I would ask a lot of questions and be very careful not to touch anything. As of recently, I've taken on more of a leadership role. I help to teach processes to new volunteers; I feel more confident working on my own. I can also see that Lisa trusts me a lot more. Especially on some of the more complicated tasks.
