

NEW YORK SPRING 2023

THOMAS
HEATHERWICK'S GLOBAL BLUEPRINT COMES TO NEW YORK

THE LINED UP

SPRING AMENITIES

THE LUX
NEW YORK

THOMAS' TAKEOVER

Dine at the

TIME OUT MARKET

Fine print: Luptatque none odi qui dolorerundia volestisi ressus aut fuga. Secto vidiciam et maiorio ma ad es eiciet et lacerit asperor repeligendi vent dolor a natiur miniaspiti aut apedige nientusam vent lictotatem fuga. Ictem res niente landit resent et officio vellorum cum sum que atet eatem quaecum ipidi re, cum fugiae quiatur? Iquias adis cum corro ipsaepu dipeidit occatiissum ut et liquasi tendani stemos comniae ipsa dolum lati cuptaes doloria nos mo cus non nulparum volo endelen tiorandunti ipienitem et autem nem voluptat exerum qui vel modita simendeAssequatis accullaccus, consequi te int liquam rem fuga. Um venimolo illaborum sita si volere perum sint latur? Borporio ssuntio rporum con nost, im quias es di cus, torem idit laut ipiet quiasinverum fugiti quia eos etus re,

THE CONTENTS

5

THE TENANTS

Tenants express their thoughts and opinions to the landlord.

6

THE LANDLORD

The landlord gives his sneak peek of what to look out for in our NYC SPRING 2023 publication.

8

TOP 4 SPRINGTIME AMENITIES

If you are short of ideas of things to do this season, here are some for you.

14

THE LUX NEW YORK

Explore some of the fanciest and luxurious hotels that may satisfy your springtime staycation.

20

THOMAS' TAKEOVER

Take a look at some of the well-recognized hotspots brought to you by Thomas Heatherwick.

26

THE CONTRIBUTORS

THE TENANTS

Hello,

I am grateful to the editors for the opportunity to be a voice for my community. I'm a hotel employee at the 1 Hotel Brooklyn Bridge. I love providing quality service to the guests and lending a helping hand to those who need a place to stay, even if its just for a few hours. Fashion is a creative passion of mine. I love the aesthetic pleasure that comes with it. I love exploring the different fabrics of fashion. I love to learn which fibers blend with the others and why certain fibers are priced higher than others.

LINEUP brings me joy because I get to understand more and more about the aesthetic pleasure surrounding me. I feel content with traveling around the world alone knowing that I can always take a copy of the LINEUP in any city I visit. I like it all; the details, the recommendations, the design.

Learning the aesthetic, the world, the good and the bad comes with allowing your mind to see other viewpoints. When I was younger, I gave up on so many ideas because I felt like I needed to change everyone's mind. As time passed, I've come to realize that not everyone needs to agree, but to at least see through the blinds into the light of the opinion. Looking for a hotel, a highrise apartment, or a home can be a one way street once you've set eyes on "the one". It may seem like love at first sight, but if you receive any other opinions, think through them because they may be recommendations in disguise. That truly applies to many aspects of my life, so I hope it may help to apply it in yours too. Cheers!

Ms. B from Canarsie

THE LANDLORD

To the New Kids on the Block

L

INEUP magazine brings in the details of the new buildings, spaces, infrastructure, and objects around the globe. Your world means the world to us and your comfort comforts us. Can't decide on which of the 3 places you toured to call home? No worries; we've got something to help you decide. Looking for new places to eat with your friends? Mmmhmm, we know, we know. Around the corner isn't too near and around the world isn't too far.

What happened during the years of the pandemic took a toll on everyone's lives. Many people lost their jobs, loved ones, and enthusiasm for life. This Spring's edition of the LINEUP New York features some new or remodeled locations that spark hope in humanity during the post-pandemic resurgence.

AJP, Editor-In-Chief

TOP

4

*SPRINGTIME AMENITIES
FOR LIVING
THE NEW YORK DREAM*

*LET THE SUN MARINATE
YOU WHILE RELAXING IN YOUR BATHTUB.*

In the coming months of Spring, New York's weather starts to blossom to the degrees we New Yorkers so fully deserve. As the winter seeps away and the sun comes out, take an hour out of your weekend to lay in your tub like the soap on the edge of your bath.

KEEP YOUR HEAD UP AROUND THE HIGHEST SKYSCRAPERS.

Take a walk with your friends out in New York City! Explore the high rises, which are where the trees are very well uniformed. You may find a row of cherry blossoms before you know it. Three skyscraper-filled places to check out would be Financial District, Midtown, and Murray Hill. In Fi-Di, you'll have no shortage of skyscrapers and as you walk around with friends, you'll notice so many historical buildings and parks too. You should have no worries checking out Midtown, especially when walking from Columbus Circle to the our third neighborhood. Murray Hill has plenty of fine dining and views that accompany your hunger by dinner time.

FEEL THE BREEZE BY CHOOSING A BIKE PARKED NEARBY.

One of the most developing aspects of the Big Apple is the CitiBike. The ability for anyone and everyone to grab a bicycle and ride around the city is a local delight. Bikers are also free to choose a motorized bicycle, for a little extra cost. The fares vary but remain quite affordable for a joyride alone or with your friends for as long as you want to experience the breeze in 80 degree weather.

However, as it is one of the most developing parts of the city, it is not yet accessible everywhere in NYC. A big chunk of Queens and to a smaller extent, Brooklyn, have yet add this new installation in some of their neighborhoods. So unfortunately, a resident of Far Rockaway might have to hop on the A train to Bed-Stuy . The waiting game would be needed as the CitiBike will soon come to neighborhoods such as Canarsie, Ozone Park, and Corona.

Many cities have their own transportation for those who find themselves stuck in heavy foot-traffic. But what separates the CitiBike system from many others is the rapid addition of bike lanes. Creating lanes for cyclists is the easiest way for a someone to ride a bike in a jammed packed city like New York City. One could surmise that the addition of bike lanes is life saving for a cyclist because of New Yorker's notorious reputation for bad driving.

EXPLORE THE PARK AND HAVE A PICNIC WITH SOME FRIENDS.

How do you reward yourself after fasting for an entire month? An Eid picnic at Central Park. A nice picnic for a one or all of your friends on a Sunday morning or afternoon. But of course, Central Park is not the only option. Prospect Park would be amazing and some consider it to be better than its Manhattan rival, Central. Brooklyn Bridge Park is the real amusement park of Brooklyn, as there are 6 piers to choose from. Piers 1, 3, and 4 are great for picnics, get togethers, and even baby showers. Pier 2 is where the basketball and handball courts are at. Pier 5 is one gigantic field for futbol, football, or rugby. Pier 6 has a beach volleyball court and a playground for the kids. But their best feature is that you have free front row tickets to see the Manhattan skyline while doing any (or none) of the previously mentioned activities.

MARCH WINDS AND APRIL SHOWERS

BRING FORTH

MAY FLOWERS.

THE LUX NEW YORK

The Four Seasons Midtown, The Times

PUBLIC Hotel, Uniq Hotels

Equinox Hotel, Five Star Alliance

The Roxy Hotel New York, View Retreats

1 Hotel Central Park, View Retreats

Yotel New York, Global Grasshopper

The Standard High Line, My Boutique Hotels

Hotel Indigo Lower East Side, Hotel Indigo LES

Aman New York, Aman Resorts

Hotel Barriere Fouquet's New York,
Vogue

1 Hotel Brooklyn Bridge, The Dwell

The Peninsula Midtown, The Times

Andaz 5th Avenue, Hyatt

ModernHaus Soho, Conde Nast Traveler

THOMAS' TAKEOVER

PAGE

20

Meet Thomas Heatherwick, the man responsible for a few of the new major hotspot attractions in Manhattan, NYC.

Being known as the pier where the Titanic survivors descended in 1912, pier 54 has had a tregeidous hisotry. Overtime, it has become forgotten and alone; as empty as anyone could expect an abandoned pier to look. A century later, the idea of turning this old and forgotten pier into a newfound attraction began with American businessman Barry Diller of the Diller-von Furstenberg Family Foundation. Diller, working along the Husdon River Park Trust Leadership, recommeded Thomas Heatherwick and Heatherwick Studios to create a blueprint of what the new symbol of hope in New York City would look like. Diller's foundation donated over a quarter billion dollars towards building the site. Heatherwick believe the space would look like a living organism living in the river, with each column shaped differently. The space features a green hill, an amphitheather, and a wonderful view of both Lower and Midtown Manhattan.

On May 21, 2021, Little Island opened to NYC residents and tourists from around the world as the best new New York City attraction. As the world had been stained by a global pandemic, the new structure proves itself to be an oasis from the harsh corners of the world.

Many young adults come to have picnics, dine, and enjoy the performances with a tremendous view of both New York and New Jersey. Everyone celebrates one another by spending time with each other in this space. Thomas Heatherwick and his team, in collaboration with Diller and the city of New York, came together to heal the city, and there wasn't a better time or location that could've been better than Pier 54.

The Hudson Yards' Related Companies CEO Stehen Ross and the Heatherwick Studio collaborated to create a honeycomb-like attraction as part of the new Hudson Yards redevelopment project. This multi-billion (25 to be exact) dollar development includes the residence and office buildings spanning from 10 Hudson Yards to 55 Hudson Yards, The Shed, The Shops & Restaurants at Hudson Yards, The Public Plaza, and eventually the Equinox Hotel. Heatherwick was in charge of creating a design for the Vessel. The only direction he was given was to "create a galvanizing moment" and a "12-month long Christmas tree comparable to Rockefeller Center". So the Heatherwick studio shaped the structure's skeleton in Italy and had it imported to New York. The Vessel now stands 16 stories tall and consists of 154 flights of stairs as well as an elevator and ramps in the center. The exterior is made of copper steel and glass. The structure is heavily influenced by ancient Indian architecture.

On March 15, 2019, the Vessel opened to the public with a grand ceremony featuring artists and musicians from all over the globe. Being the unusual looking attraction that it is, the architecture received plenty of praise and criticism. Many of those comments praised Heatherwick and Ross for their vision of "an all-year round Christmas Tree", while many others saw it as dangerous and supportive of those who wish to take the easy way out. On December 22, 2020, during the pandemic, a 24 year old female jumped from the roof of the structure. Less than a month later on January 11, 2021, a 21 year old male jumped to his death as well. In total, there were four deaths that ultimately led to the closing before safety nets were added to the structure in August of 2022.

Thomas Heatherwick first collaborated with the fashion powerhouse Longchamp in 2003 to create a shopping experience that surpassed a visit to the Guggenheim. So, he delivered. Heatherwick worked alongside well-known architect Louis Loria to create something out of the ordinary.

LONG CHAMP

Located at 132 Spring Street in Soho Manhattan, the showroom opened on May 24, 2006. The store is considered a piece of art not only because of the exterior and interior appearances at first glance, but because of the finer details and intention of the mastermind and his team. The stairs are made of multiple ribbons of steel that are shaded a brown orange colour to match the red maple wood floors around the shop. The stairways seem seamless, as they are connected to the walls and ceilings making it feel like an otherworldly experience. While walking up those two flights of stairs, you would see displays to either side of your body. The displays, holding up various items to be sold by Longchamp, are made of the same material used in many luxury cars.

Walking distance from both of his other structures Vessel and Little Island, the Lantern House is Thomas Heatherwick's first residential project in the United States.

LANTERN

HOUSE

The residential building is a eye popping feature of the walk along the High Line and is located at 515 West 18th Street. The soaring high windows on each floor allows each and every room to be illuminated completely. Along with high windows come high ceilings, as many rooms are up to 10 feet 9 inches high. Each residence is equipped with well-expanded kitchens wine refrigerators, spacious bathrooms with a sun-lit bathtub. Of course, what would a residential building along the High Line be without a penthouse? The Lantern House also features penthouses that overlook the Hudson waterfront. Each penthouse also has a private terrace.

THE CONTRIBUTORS

The Guardian (cover photo)
Refinery29 pg. 2
Untapped Cities pg. 7
The Economist pgs. 20, 21
Flickr pg. 24
Arch20 pg. 24
ArchDaily pg. 25
NY nesting pg. 25
HUJI pg. 26
Amazon pg. 26
The Times pg. 16
Uniq Hotels pg. 16
My Boutique Hotels pg. 16
Five Star Alliance pg. 16
Dwell pg. 17
Hotel Indigo LES pg. 17
The New York Times (back cover)

Fred Moon pg. 3
Jared Rice pg. 8
Leslie Cross pg. 10
Anthony Famin pg. 11
Lucidclick pg. 12
Nikolas Koenig pgs. 14, 15
Yoav Aziz pg. 22
Juliana Malta pg. 23
Jordan McAuley pg. 23
Soupflower pg. 24
Kevin McCutcheon pg.27

Shop Urban Outfitters

A VINYL A NIGHT
KEEPS YOUR SPIRIT BRIGHT

UO

NEW YORK SPRING 2023

$23.40
ISBN 978-0-9999-9999-8
52340>
9 780999 999998