This article has a timeline of the events of occupy wall street which can be used to research further research all the important events during the protest.

Describe the process you used to find this source including any keywords and the search engine or tool you used to search.

To get a broad idea of what happened during OWS, I thought that a timeline of the event would be perfect so I searched online for "occupy wall street timeline". This led me to a few articles and then I found this magazine "The Week" it had a very clear timeline that I could use.

What other sources or further information would you need to answer your question? Where would you look for them?

I would probably need to decide which dates from the timeline were the most significant and find some newspaper articles about it. I believe that finding an archive with newspapers from those dates might have articles written about the events I need to read.
