

SITE REPORT #2B

Jameel Thomas

Based on your observations at the Brooklyn Museum, develop a complex research question about the relationship between 1 piece of art that you viewed and a social or political issue. Remember, your research question should be specific and researchable.

Research Question: Why are women primarily seen as caregivers, and how has this attitude towards women changed since the 1970's?

Find 2 sources. *For this report, one of your sources MUST be an academic journal article. Your other source can be a news article, internet source, or book.

1 source should have to do with the artwork, artist, artistic style, or some element of the work you chose. For example, if you were interested in learning more about realistic photography depicting women engaged in domestic activities, you might search for sources about "domestic imagery AND photography" or "realistic photography" rather than sources about the specific artist.

1 source should be about the social / political issue that is articulated in your research question. This source may or may not have to do with art.

Write an MLA citation for each source:

Source 1:

Describe the process you used to find these sources including any keywords and the specific search engine or tool you used to search.

To find the first source I had to go to the schools library website and click on the find articles link then I chose the link that related to art. After choosing art I went on art EBSCO and searched the name of the artist “Emory Douglas” and I found this article which relates to my report.

To find the second source I went on the school library website and went to the find article section. There it gave me options and I chose the humanities section. Then I chose humanities EBSCO and search in the search bar “women caregivers” and found the academic journal I chose for source 2.

In a sentence or 2, describe the main point of each source. Then consider: how do these sources address all or part of your research question?

Source 1:

In the first source it look at the artist of the “Revolutionary Student”, Emory Douglas. The article shows that Emory Douglas was an artist who was apart of the Black Panthers. His art work are usually the views of the black panthers, and in the 1970’s no one thought that those views were wrong. Some of Douglas work centered around Health issues like Hypertension and High Blood pressure. This now relates to the picture now because of his views, as seeing women as only caregivers to take care of sick men.

Source 2:

In the second source it takes a look at how men are now doing the work of women caregiver. This article shows that men also have a unique set of characteristics that ensure a man that they could be caregivers and not only women. It’s all about changing the way that men look at women not only as caregivers and nurturers but as equal since they are also capable of doing the same thing women caregivers can. The article then look at how men can adapt to the demand of care work. Long story short this article as shows you that the attitude towards women being caregivers has changed since the 1970’s and that men and society are seen caregivers as a unisex type of work.

Describe ways the two sources you chose are similar and different. Would it be difficult to integrate these two sources into a single writing assignment? Why or why not?

The only thing my two sources had in common was that it Focus on care givers. One article showed how the artist views on women and health and the other shows you how men can also be caregivers. The second article also shows that the attitude towards women has change over the years. To write a single assignment with these two articles would be really difficult because of how different the two articles are.

What other sources or further information would you need to answer your question? Where would you look for that information?

The school’s data base seem to not have that much information on women caregivers and the data are limited. But I would use sources like google scholar and other academic style search engines to find articles touching on this subject. I could be looking in the wrong department of the school library article search and that could be the reason I didn’t find that much on why are women seen as caregivers.
