

Alejandro Martínez

Eng 1101-0403

10/14/14

Summary of the essay "Texting Shorthand Annoys Purists and May Have Lasting Impact" by Seth Mydans.

✓ The essay "Texting Shorthand Annoys Purists and May Have Lasting Impact" by Seth Mydans is based on the development of a new language formed by text messaging in the recent years. The essay itself talks about some of the characteristics of this variant of English, starting with the rapid rate or speed at which we can write ~~*~~ those "new words" when texting, by the use of "Compressed jumble of letters and numbers" to form new phrases. Also, Seth Mydans states on his essay that this new language has been recently "leak out" into some countries as something acceptable on regular testing papers such as exams, due to its rapid use and ~~easy~~ "easy understanding". Finally, the essay describes this new language as ~~same~~ the result of the "global pervasiveness", which can really ~~not~~ lead thing to change. The essay, "Texting Shorthand Annoys Purists and May Have Lasting Impact" by Seth Mydans is developed on the factors that cause ~~the~~ a new <sup>variant of a</sup> language to be created which are ~~the~~ rate of writing, global pervasiveness and the acceptance or approval of new words ~~into~~ on some cultures.