Dear Nurse Recruiter:

This letter of recommendation is written for Ms. Arambegim Nazrisho who is currently a student at New York City College of Technology in pursuit of her baccalaureate in nursing degree.

Ms. Nazrisho completed a Fall 2015 Women's Health and Wellness 3-credit baccalaureate-nursing elective at New York City College of Technology. Ms. Nazrisho and I enjoyed a faculty-student relationship during this 15-week period. Throughout the academic semester Ms. Nazrisho demonstrated the following principle characteristics: morally sound, highly motivated, accountable and self-directed. When challenged academically Ms. Nazrisho conveyed an ability to critically gather, analyze and synthesize data. Ms. Nazrisho demonstrated that she was more than capable of conveying newly acquired knowledge in a variety of teaching venues (case studies, assignments and term paper). She communicated an understanding of the nurse's role in meeting the challenges of caring for today's complex woman.

I endorse Ms. Nazrisho's quest for employment in your facility and believe that she is more than academically prepared to meet the rigors of your Institution.

Sincerely,

Prof. Lynda M. Konecny
