NEW YORK CITY
COLLEGE OF TECHNOLOGY

What is Handshake?

Handshake is an online career management system for students of New York City College of Technology to search and apply for internships and employment opportunities.

City Tech students and alumni may also use Handshake to:

- Access to personalized job recommendations based on major and interest
- Upload a resume and complete a Handshake online profile
- Make your profile and resume viewable to employers
- View and learn about employers by attending career events and informational sessions
- Search for and apply to open positions

Who can use Handshake?

Handshake is for City Tech students and alumni access.

- Current City Tech students and alumni

Handshake Tips

- Handshake does not substitute for a LinkedIn page. Handshake and LinkedIn are separate sites employers may use to search for talent. Be sure to keep all career related profiles complete, professional, and up to date!
- If using a profile picture on Handshake, the photo should be a professional photo of you, clean background, high-resolution image, and business casual attire. Remember, your profile builds onto your personal brand - polish your profile to stand out
- Privacy is important and Handshake allows you to indicate who may see your profile, so decide on your personal preferences

Issues logging onto Handshake?

Please reach out to pdcc@citytech.cuny.edu if you are having any issues. You should not create your own Handshake account, as the platform will not connect and sync to City Tech's career services account.
