METAMORPHOSIS WITH McQUEEN

Sarah Burton, Head of Design for Womenswear at Alexander McQueen has launched the Alexander McQueen ready-to-wear Fall 2018 line: Metamorphosis, and the fashion show will be taking place in Paris this coming spring. Burton expresses the different characteristics of a women's personality and focuses this fashion show solely on the growth of women, the metamorphosis of which a cocoon becomes a moth or butterfly.

This show will be a clear representation of femaleness with power and Romanticism as its many disguises. Sarah will do this by showing from the collection different tuxedo designs, all flattering in various shapes and colors, gradually easing into various levels of dresses, some fitting, others loose fit. Lastly combining the two, pairing tuxedo jackets embroidered with fringe, layered with a touch of flowing dresses underneath.
