Broadcast Internship @CUNYTV

How it all got started.

I heard about the internship through internship director, Prof Tanya Goetz via email blast and then Melanie Martinez (a student who I'd been working with told me she was just finishing said internship while we both we working with Prof Josh Kapusinski and the rest is history.

Well I had to apply, interview, wait and coordinate my schedule with work.

Not a fun chat with my boss.

What's CUNYTV?

CUNY TV is a non-commercial educational television station in New York City, part of City University of New York's university system. It provides tele-course programming varying in subjects from mathematics, physics, and biology to history, art, and social studies. -Thanks Wikipedia

Internship Highs

Learned to use Sony FS7 camera

Learned nuances to mic'ing

Gained copious production credits

Learned professional conventions on team production

My graphics being used on television

New network and bagful of recommendations

I'm still there after 120 hours seeing a project through.

That thing about the universe gravitating
towards you
