

Dear Professor Azaroff,

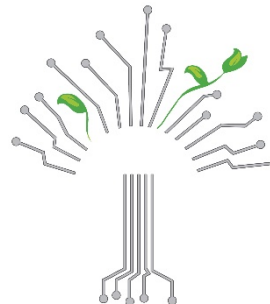

Thank you for all the time and service you graciously contributed to the New York City College of Technology Campus Sustainability Council. We appreciate all the efforts you made to help bring into fruition City Tech's sixth annual Earth Day observance, Ecofest 2021 'Respect, Restore, Reflect'.

Ecofest is an important and growing conference. It brings together a collaboration of authors, educators, environmentalists to discuss environmental issues through art, policy, science, and technology. This forum arms us all, students and faculty with the dexterity to protect the most important thing on Earth, "Life". We have learned that the greatest contributors to the havoc taking place in our atmosphere, earth, and oceans today derive from the externalities from our activity. We must continue our search to find ways where we may continue our advancement without burdening the health of our communities and the natural environment.

Thank you for participating in our weekly meetings. Your devotion, professional insight, and recommendations are invaluable to the development of our campus's Sustainability Task Force. We appreciate all your support in assembling our esteemed panel of speakers. Thank you for moderating the "Resilient 21 / Policy-Laws and Regulations" panel. Your passion and knowledge of the subject matter rendered a very interesting and informative conversation. It is encouraging to learn that our present administration is acting towards reinstating and implementing new policies to protect our communities and natural environment.

I hope that you will join us again in the Fall to prepare for next year's conference as we plan to showcase City Tech's Finest, 'The Superheroes of Today and Tomorrow'.

Sincerely,
Felix Baez
Campus Sustainability Council Executive
New York City College of Technology, CUNY
Brooklyn, New York 11201

CITY TECH
SUSTAINABILITY

Attached:
Ecofest 2021 Schedule
Ecofest 2021 180-Second Video Challenge