http://www.blogger.com

Use this site to set up your free account for your blog for your thesis.

During the entire semester you will be required to keep all your research and design on a blog. For the second class you will need to set up your site. The name should be in this format: ARCH3610F14(some part of your name) – for example:
ARCH3610F14IA

Once you have set up your blog you will need to add my email address so that I can verify that you are posting and when.
       -Under Settings
       -Email
       -Blog Send Address: iazaroff@cuny.citytech.edu

You will need to answer the following questions for next class:

  1. Which building typology you are researching?
  2. Why are you researching this building typology?
  3. What is the specialty of this building type you would like to research i.e. museum for dance, school for digital media…
  4. What are the examples that you will be researching… list the examples, location and architect (10 examples)
  5. What are you goals for working with this building type?
  6. What are the program elements that you see included at this point in your building? (may evolve once more research is done)

The answers will be your first post. You should include the question as part of your answers, so if other looks at your blog they will be able to understand your posts.

Later in the semester you will each be given someone from the outside that will continuously review your project and give comments to your blog.

The blog will include, images, sketches,drawings, writings and scans of sketches. It will act as your digital sketchbook and research document.
