① pg 3 "This was understandable. Math is precise, there is only one correct answer. Whereas, the answer on English tests... is always judgement call, a matter of opinion..."

I understand where the writer is coming from. Math being more understandable than English b/c English can be more of a judgement call. However, I have grew up with immigrant parents too and even though I heard "broken english" it never stopped me or influenced the way I speak english to the point where I scored lower in English than in Math. But it did teach me to understand another type of English.

② pg 2 "Sociologists and linguists probably will tell you that a person's developing language skills are more influenced by peers"

I agree with this statement b/c based on experience and how I grew up, I believe my peers did have an impact on my English speaking.

Pg 1 "You should know that my mother's expressive command of English belies how much she actually understands."

It's true.

This is relateable b/c my dad can watch lots of American shows and understands everything. But, when he speaks he doesn't use really big words, he speaks "simple" eng. I think it's different for everyone. My mom for example doesn't watch anything American b/c she claims she can't understand.

pg 4 "I knew I had succeeded where it counted when my mother finished reading my book and gave me her verdict: 'So easy to read!'

I think this quote is really important b/c besides speaking "fancy" eng & using big words, I feel it's important to have a piece of writing where anyone and everyone can read. You want to be able to touch anyone, not just a certain group of people.
