

Cely G. Progress Report #1

I am teaming up with Elijah Moyd's project on a mystery visual novel. The game is about a student going missing that happened after school during a rainstorm and someone is responsible. - Elijah M. There are multiple endings based on the player trying to find who did it and make a decision.

What I do is I am an art director, my role is to draw out the characters for the game, figuring out the art style that suits theme of the game, and story boarding. However, I am not doing this alone. I have an artist friend who volunteers to join us on this project. She has more experience in digital art and this is a good opportunity to boost her portfolio for her future career.

So far, we have now four characters descriptions from Elijah, and our goal is to make them come to life. From sketches to final.
