

Within the ted talk was showing the world about graphic design. Modernism is an artistic philosophy during the 20th century that had to do with graphic design. This was an experimentation of after world war 1. Creativity comes in a variety of ways.

Postmodernism is a late-20th-century style and concept in the arts, architecture, and criticism that represents a departure from modernism and has at its heart a general distrust of grand theories and ideologies as well as a problematic relationship with any notion of art. This shows that art and graphics are evolving into different ways.

Stefan Steigmeister is a graphic designer from Austria. He mentions a lot about happiness during the talk in order to persuade the audience that happiness comes in many different forms. In a modern term it also applies to life because any object or anyone can be in a form of happiness. In the world of graphic design people enjoy their career seeing different types of design work.

Digital art has become popular in the more modern world because in a way it seems that people are more interested in Adobe Creative Cloud. A lot of billboards are normally designed by these software programs. As a designer myself this is very important in this day and age because it makes me aware of the kind of work that I have to do for my future.

Analog is a digital design process within the computer. With the stuff included such as photoshop and the pencil tool. This includes woodblock and ink to print. The elements are quite simple because all tools are there.