

Summer 2016 Graphic Design Internship

The Columbia University Football Team is looking for a digital savvy graphic designer to produce unique content for various recruiting and marketing campaigns for the Summer of 2016. Candidates should be passionate about sports and have familiarity with the sport of football and collegiate athletics. This is a PAID internship, students are also eligible to receive 3 credits through CityTech if they are enrolled in the Communication Design internship course, COMD 4900.

The Graphic Design Intern(s) will assist with the creation of unique artwork that can be sent, shared, posted and also printed for the use of our recruiting efforts. Under the supervision and creative guidance of the Director of Social Media, our intern(s) would be asked to produce artwork that aligns with the Columbia Football brand and entices recruits to join our program. Candidates should be an expert in the Adobe Creative Suite and have a working knowledge of football and collegiate athletics. It is important to find a candidate that understands they will be working in a fast-paced environment.

Length of Internship: 6/15/16— 8/3/16
