

Upicnic is now looking for candidates for graphic design internship positions for Fall 2016. We are a startup at the intersection of tech and food – if you are a foodie, LOVE picnics, know your way around Central Park and have a handle on social media, we'd like nothing more than to have you join our team.

You need to like working in teams for this opportunity to fit you right. You won't be micro-managed so a can-do problem solving attitude and a creative spark are what you'll need. Here are other things we look for:

- Accountability
- Creativity and contribution beyond tasks assigned
- Thoroughness and accuracy
- Leaders and influencers are welcome
- Previous experience with creative projects is a plus
- Know your way around Adobe Creative Cloud

You won't be getting coffee or making copies – but if you want to learn how to launch and manage a startup in NYC, here's what we need your help with:

- Brainstorm creative campaigns, graphics and promotional material
- Contribute to social media campaigns development and execution
- Edit and maintain existing graphic assets
- Manage photo & video shoots from concept, to location scouting, to styling

To be considered, please make sure your cover letter and resume are attached as a PDF and send to marta@upicnic.com. Make it a creative subject line, will ya? We don't like boring mail.
