CPLR § 104. Construction. (how courts MUST "construe" / understand / apply all the various provisions)

The civil practice law and rules shall be liberally construed to secure the just, speedy and inexpensive determination of every civil judicial proceeding.

Follow-up on . . . New York's Long Arm Statute

CPLR § 302. Personal jurisdiction by acts of non-domiciliaries.

- (a) Acts which are the basis of jurisdiction. As to a cause of action arising from any of the acts enumerated in this section, a court may exercise personal jurisdiction over any non-domiciliary, or his executor or administrator, who in person or through an agent:
1. transacts any business within the state or contracts anywhere to supply goods or services in the state; or
  2. commits a tortious act within the state, except as to a cause of action for defamation of character arising from the act; or
  3. commits a tortious act without the state causing injury to person or property within the state, except as to a cause of action for defamation of character arising from the act, if he
    - (i) regularly does or solicits business, or engages in any other persistent course of conduct, or derives substantial revenue from goods used or consumed or services rendered, in the state, or
    - (ii) expects or should reasonably expect the act to have consequences in the state and derives substantial revenue from interstate or international commerce; or
  4. owns, uses or possesses any real property situated within the state.

Let's try it!!

Under CPLR § 302(a), may a NY court exercise personal jurisdiction over . . .

- Michelle, of Mississippi, who spends every summer at her parents' home in Montauk, NY? (Arguably) yes, under CPLR(a)(4) because she could be considered to "use" or "possess" the property (depending on how courts have interpreted those terms in other cases.)
- Fatou, of Florida, who defamed the character of Samara from Staten Island? No, because CPLR(a)(2) and (a)(3) both exclude claims for defamation.
