

Jonathan R

- First grabbed the camera when he was 25 years old
- He calls his camera a weapon
- He used this weapon to express what was going on in the early 20th century
- He would meet someone and ask them about their life, then create the photo
- He would use his own experiences to understand and relate to them so that he can create the story behind the photo
- Eventually, his work was recognized by big companies that later hires him for work
- He later started to write novels and direct films