

I'm a person who first approach life in a positive light. I believe one of the most important attribute a man can have is a genuine smile. I encourage myself and everyone around me to be proactive, taking positive actions in combating lives challenging circumstances. I seek to gain knowledge and advocate for the needed and the underserved population. I embrace change by understanding that change is necessary for success. I respect myself and the cultural values of people everywhere. Everyone has unique qualities and a purpose in life, so I seek the good in every man and value their opinion on different subject matter so I encouraged the participation of team players. It's imperative that we work together for a common cause. I believe there is a leader in all of us. I strive to lead by example, as much as I believe I'm a great leader, I'm also a great follower but I'm only a follower for success and productivity.
