For my internship this summer session, I will be working with a non-profit organization dedicated to promoting racial equity and social justice by addressing the challenges faced by communities facing inequality. The organization focuses on creating a society by key areas such as education, healthcare, employment, and housing. This non-profit organization supports groups by education, and by having strong community relationships to help ensure equal access to opportunities and resources. The organization believes in the importance of breaking down obstacles to success, working towards policy, and voices that are often silenced in mainstream conversations.

Founded with the goal of driving change, the company supports policy changes and actively engages in movements. They are involved in raising awareness around racial and social justice issues, often partnering with other groups to strengthen their influence. The organization has a team of individuals who believe in the power of community and collective action. The organization works not only to address, but also to ensure a future where is a lived reality for everyone.

The organization is filled with a team that is working to create meaningful change. As an intern, I will be contributing to several key projects. I look forward to being a part of an organization that is truly making a difference in the fight for equality and justice.

Based on this research, I went to their website In their website, it shows information of what this organization is about. What stood out to me on their website is their approach to community support, for groups like immigrants, seniors, and girls. They focus on services such as healthcare access, educational support, financial counseling, and civic engagement, aiming to break down barriers to opportunity. Their emphasis on empowerment through education and resources, such as Project Sarika for girls, shows a strong commitment to creating long-term, positive change in the community.
