Some suggestions I have on how I would survive in the pandemic is to keep yourself busy with something you find interesting or something new you always wanted to try. I have been surviving the pandemic is by taking safety precautions to keep me and my family safe by wearing a mask and washing my hands when I come in the house or touch something from outside this is how I stay safe, but while in the house to keep me sane I play video games do homework and most important I bond with my family playing fun family activity games and creating a better bond with them, also it is important to give people their space during this time because it can become toxic.
