

MEMO

To: DR. J Ellis

From: David Herrera

Date: March 14, 2015

Subject: Project 1 Mock interview.

Group Partners: Marko Vlagic, Timothy Lok, Aaron Feng

Interview Questions:

1. What do you like about this field?
2. What do you know about this company?
3. Will you be able to work overtime?
4. Are you willing to relocate?
5. Why did you leave your last job?
6. Tell me about a project that you have worked on alone or as a team.

Reflection on job mock interviews:

The job mock interviews we conducted in class are beneficial especially to students that have never been to an interview. The setting mimics one that you can actually encounter in a real interview. The questions my group partners asked me presented to be tough at times, so I realized that you need to actually do more research on the company that you are applying to. These mock interview questions can really serve a purpose and one can gain experience from answering them to your peers, instead of a potential employer for the following reasons. When I was being interviewed I realized that I really didn't have a follow up answer for questions that were being asked to me. Also, I was told by the members of my group that in some responses my choice of words was not the best, so that leaves room for improvement for the next interview which could be the real deal.