

MEMO

To: Professor Ellis

From: Sandra Jarro

Date: March 9, 2015

Subject: Mock interview reflection

We had to choose 6 major hard questions that interviewers often ask on the interview. We as a group came up with some such as, What are your weaknesses? which was one of the hardest questions to be asked. My feedback on my interview was overall good, however my interviewer did notice I was nervous throughout the whole interview. Somehow we all got nervous on the interview but I should really practice some more on that and improve it. The things I was really good at were giving proper answers to all my questions, it showed that I was really informed about the company. I also gave a little background on my past work experience which was very good. I was asked why would I be a good fit for the position and my answer clearly showed the qualities and skills I have for this position. Since I was nervous there was one question that I did not answer clearly which was bad for my interview. As I said, my interview was good and my feedback was good as well.