

MEMO

To: Professor Jason Ellis

From: Isaias

Partners: Johnathan, Michaelangelo, Paul Nembhard

Topic: Mock Interview Reflection

The overall feedback I received from my mock interview was that I approached it well. I was told that I was under-dressed considering the type of interview I would normally go to in my field, but that I presented myself in a respectful and memorable manner. I answered each of the six questions in a way that showed I was interested in working at the place, and that I clearly understood the kinds of responsibilities that I would undertake if I had received said job.

In a future interview, I not only need to make sure that I am, firstly, dressed appropriately for said interview, but also make that, as I did for the mock interview, that I review all of my own information, as well as some information on the company I interviewed at. It is always impressive when you are able to talk about a specific work done by the potential employer that helps show your interest in them as well as an initiative to participate on future projects.