

MEMORANDUM

From: Milagros Vergaray

To: Professor Ellis

Subject: Mock Interview Reflection

In my opinion it is a 'must' for any employee who is looking for any job position to be prepared any kind of questions that is related to the field that the employee is applying to.

This mock interview helped me to think that I must to be well prepared for those questions for my future job position interview, and get the confident and satisfactory answers. In my Writing Class, I work with my team: Miguel and Ariadna, and I had a great positive evaluation working as a team and evaluating each other. Also I had some nervousness because one of my team was very targeting with some questions and at some point I felt nervous.

Our team decided to make a group interview, so three of us were the interviewer and one was the future employee. We used the six questions that we picked as a group, but suddenly we asked more than 6 questions, and sometimes we – the interviewers got so excited to ask more questions, just to see how the employee felt about it.

As I wrote before, I felt so nervous when I was interviewed by my team, but it helped me so much to think that I need to practice in some questions, and also keep practice my past programming projects, and keep updating my knowledge in the technology field.

I would suggest to any student who is applying for an internship position, job position should be well prepared, and the good key is to practice with a friend. So the student would be able to tone his/her voice, and help to get confidence and get ready for those questions.
