

By going through and revising all my essays, units and homeworks in this semester I can say that I have grown a bit as a reader, writer and a listener. By comparing to the start and almost the end of it we can see changes in my work, as for the start I came with little knowledge of college level units or assignments. For example we can talk about Unit 1 one of my worst and compare to my unit 2 one of my best one we can say that I have gotten a bit better and I can still get more improvement and actually make my work more college level and get more feedback because that's a good way to know if I'm doing better. My most favorite assignment for me was unit 3 because I decided to do a comic about what quarantine has taught me. It was really interesting because at the start it was kind of hard to make the plan for the comic and how I was going to use pictures, drawing etc. The least favorite assignment that I had to do in this semester was unit one because it was the most difficult one to accomplish. This unit was one of the most complicated for because we were talking about discourse community a word that made me part of that community, this was really hard because I never made a pause and think in which community I was in but this assignment made me think of one and my discourse community was between my friend, the word was "bro" which for me it's important and my close friends. For example "This word "bro" has changed for me over time because I only call bro to those that are my friends or those that are close to me." This is the worst of my paper I have done this semester and by this paper I have learned a lot. It has taught me that I need help. From this assignment the professor gave her feedback giving the hints on what needs to be fixed. Revising my past assignment at the end of this semester I was able to see the mistakes that I have made thanks to the things I have learned and probably fix them and make the work way better. For example in my unit 2 I try to apply my knowledge that I have gathered from my last mistakes I have made. By doing this I saw a better result in my paper than with my unit 1 comparing my grades I have shown improvement and that's why I realize I made some kind of improving. For me the most challenging part in this semester was to apply the new techniques because I have learned a lot but I'm a very lazy writer like to keep it simple and try to do the most regular work never try to do outstanding work and by saying that is bad but i realize that and try my best. After all it was my job as a student and it is the best for me to apply this because at the end of the day I'll be the one that is going to benefit from these lessons because it's going to help me to my next years in college. I'm not really happy with my work this semester because i know i could do much better work that i have been giving but it has also taught me where my mistakes are and how to improve my work. For example one of my biggest errors is when writing I have too many ideas and i don't know how to organize them and don't even make sense. As I got feedback my professor Unit one was the worst paper for me. Unit 2 by using the category of research I could improve on organizing my ideas and for my unit 3 I try to apply this feedback from my other units and bring one all together using all the knowledge to show my improvement but this this time i had to do it in a comic way which in my opinion it was a bit hard to do because i had to include image and learn how my story will go by page and image. This semester wasn't easy because it was only but i tried my best at doing and this class it's not my favorite subject in school but this is very important in reading and writing in every other topic in school. By saying all of this i believe that i can still improve but working more in my assignments and by getting more feedback because i know i have been doing a little amount of work and not trying to go beyond my limits as a student and as a person.
