

Humzah is a Business and Technology of Fashion undergraduate at New York City College of Technology. He prides himself in helping others, being professional and also striving to live his best life each and every day. There are far too many occurrences nowadays where people see their lives pass away from them without experiencing what the world has to offer due to them getting sucked into a daily routine. Hearing people say how they hate their 9 to 5 job led him to pursue another path which didn't involve him ending up like those people. Humzah wants to work for a company that would value his skills and past experiences in the work place. His mission is to deliver high quality services through his abilities of accurate calculations as well as staying genuine and kind to those around him and always maintaining a professional manner in all environments. Humzah works hard and makes sure to strive to be the best at everything he does. One of the best qualities for one to have is the willingness to help others without asking for anything in return and Humzah has honed that quality very well which gives him a great path of becoming a manager. After several calculations, Humzah's price per hour is 27.00 dollars per hour.

Some of the goals that Humzah has set for himself is to attend graduate school after the completion of his Baccalaureate, get a full-time well-paying job and to eventually start and settle down with a family of his own. But before that happens, Humzah wants to secure a job within the field of management and business analytics.
