

36 hours in Manhattan under 59th street –Cynthia Alicea

FRIDAY

Food Food Food ! -3 pm.

1. Why not start off the day in New York with getting some pizza. Having a late lunch never tasted so good. Take the NYC MTA heading downtown using the 4 and 5 train lines to a stop called Bowling Green. Just 5-minute walk away from there's Adrienne's PizzaBar on Stone street. Stone street is in the historic district of the lower east side with its cobble stone road leading to you the Pizza bar gives any first time New Yorker a real treat of the past and some great tasting pizza. Adrienne's is know for there old fashion pizza. Which ranges from 23-30 dollars depending on the topping you get. But if you fell like get your own 12-inch personal pie it ranges from 17 to 23 dollars. If you don't feel like pizza, Stone street is filled with many places to eat such as Stone Street Tavern or Route 66 Smoke House.

Waterfront views -6pm.

2. How about walking that late lunch off and head back to Bowling Green and enter Battery Park for a stroll. There's a beautiful sight of liberty. Also that park shows 200 years worth of history of New York City. It has beautiful gardens and a tribute to all that was lost on Sept 11th. They the city also has its very one castle in the park as well. Its called Castle Clinton. It has all of the parks history and all that has pass through. It's such a beautiful walk by the water.

NYC Lights -7:30pm.

3. Take a short walk up to the World Trade Center Memorial and check out the beautiful lights that bright up the fountains of the memorial. With a suggested donation of about $10 you can walk the beautiful area around the fountains that light up next to were the towers once stood.

They also have guided tours for about $39 adults but if you are a college student they have a discount of $33 instead.

Cozy Vibes - 9pm.

4. After a long day of sights seeing you should take a trip to The Other Room near Christopher Street. You can walk up or take the train one stop or so away. I say walk New York City is beautiful at night with all the lights. The Other Room is a nice chill place to have a glass of wine or kick back a beer. The price range for the drinks is $10- $25

SATURDAY

Yum Breakfast - 9am.

5. Start of your day right with some bagels from this place called the Best Bagels and coffee. Best bagel shop is a small place that hidden in between 7th and 8th ave on 35th street. It has on of the best bagels where to can make your own bagel sandwich. Sometimes there's a line for the bagels coming out side the door during the week. The bagels run for about $10 and under depending on the type of bagel/sandwich you get.

Sports and Shopping -10pm.

6. After breakfast explore the area a bit. Near by there is Madison Square Garden where the Knicks and the Rangers play. Its New York City's world famous arena. If you are a sports fan I suggest you check out the knick store they have at the garden. If your some car much for sports I suggest you had over to Herald Square for some shopping. Macy's, Forever 21, H&M, Victoria Secret, Steve Madden, Levi's, Old Navy etc. you name it I'm sure its there or near by. Also near 34th herald square there the Manhattan mall with JC penny and many other shops there.

BBQ Lunchtime -1pm.

7. Lunchtime is the best time. There are so many places to go after shopping. Especially if you walk over to 32nd and Korea way and If you are a fan of Korean BBQ I suggest stopping at Shilla Restaurant. It's a great dining experience and with Korean style sitting and family style dishes. Its open 24 hours so if you want a middle of the night dinner you can certainly count on this place to be open. The prices of the barbecue part of the menu ranges from 21-30 dollars. I suggest trying the Bulgogi ($21.95) its amazing and have you wanting more after.

Lights -5pm.

8. Head over to Rocafeller Center between 5th and 6th ave on 47th street and check out the Christmas tree that just went up for the holidays. The lighting of the tree has been around for about 84 years and counting. It's a New York City tradition and it's also so grand It's free but always so crowded. There are shops such as Lego land, Couch, Nine West and more. There's even an ice skating rink, you can reserve tickets or do general admission. (Adults $32/children $15). If you don't want to Ice skate you can walk up to 50th and 5th ave to Saks Fifth avenue and watch the amazing light show that they place every year. It resets for 10 mins- 15mins I believe so I say wait and check out the whole thing,

Burgers and Shakes - 8pm.

9. Dinnertime. How about end the evening with some Craft burgers and beers at the new Black Tap location restaurant that has opened on west 55th street between 6th and 7th Ave. The burgers range from $17 to $19. I recommend the Texan Burger ($17) medium with one of their specialty shakes ($15) if that's to much for you get there classic shake ($8). Or if you want a beer ($8) or cocktail go for it ($12-$15). You will be in a food coma for the rest of the night.

SUNDAY

Iconic Breakfast -9 am.

10. Why not start off having breakfast at the famous Carnegie deli. If you don't mind waiting on a line for a bit; Carnegie Deli is said to be closing in December. So the line into that place sometimes goes around the corner. It's one of New York iconic Deli's in midtown on 7th ave between west 54th and west 55th; it's been open since the 1930's. Many people are trying to dine there before it closes. the Price range for the food is about $10-$15. I say try the Cheesecake ($10).
