Adafruit bow tie project

I do not have any previous experience with electronic components. It was a new experience and the creation of the bowtie was a lot easier than I thought it would be. I think this is a perfect beginner's project for someone who is interested in hands-on engineering with technology and the fashion industry. This is something that I would absolutely love to try again and I'll even share this with my nieces who love keeping themselves busy with interesting hands-on craft. While looking through the Adafruit Industries website, next time I would like to work with LED jewelry.
