BROOKLYN COLLEGE

Brooklyn College, part of the City University of New York, is located in the heart of New York City and integrates the city's vibrant energy into its educational approach. With around 14,000 students from 136 countries, the college offers 175 programs in various fields. The College emphasizes academic excellence, intellectual freedom, and support for first-generation college students.

ROLE

GRAPHIC DESIGN INTERN

At Brooklyn College I was part of a team of five COMD students. I was tasked to support the department's graphic design, marketing, and web support needs, focusing on social media and other student communications. I was involved in making cover designs, updating old and dated files and lastly I was involved in coming up with videos ideas for future use.

COLOR OVERVIEW

Our color palette is made up of three groups: the official college colors, the primary marketing colors, and the secondary marketing colors. Please note that the college colors are still present in the marketing colors, but how we use them has changed. Under the old brand, the college colors were used almost exclusively, which felt flat and repetitive. Now, we have more variety and greater flexibility to better suit our many needs.

The college colors should be used for formal, official, internal, athletics, and alumni communications. The marketing colors should be used for external, advertising, and admissions-focused communications.

Maroon should usually be present, but isn't required in every single situation. Think about color as a conversation with someone. We use maroon to introduce and identify ourselves, but it shouldn't be the only thing we say. The secondary colors add more flavor and variety to the conversation. Eventually, our full palette will become more associated with the college, and maroon can be used less heavily. Also, consider the length of the piece. Longer forms of communication can use a wider range of colors throughout. Shorter, smaller pieces may need to be limited in color.

Not every color combination is appropriate for every audience or occasion. For example, older alumni will identify more with maroon and gold, whereas prospective students may find a variety of colors more appealing.

Color floods can be effective, but don't forget how ample white space creates a sense of calm and sophistication, and can help colors pop.

OUR BRAND USES

FOUR TYPEFACES.

They help show our personality.

But they also provide a lot of flexibility.

Our mix of typefaces is inspired by the eclectic typography that can be found throughout Brooklyn. Praktika and Abolition are reminiscent of the painted storefront signage of bodegas and shops throughout the borough. The bold weight conveys strength, while the rounded edges add a softer, more human touch. Franklin Gothic is like our people — smart, practical, and versatile. It has a timeless quality and a historic presence in the city. Noto Serif has a more refined quality, similar to what can be found on a bronze plaque adorning a historic building.

We have the flexibility to be really strong and bold, or more academic and refined. Each typeface has its own strengths and weaknesses; therefore, we use each in very specific ways, as detailed on the following pages. Use a mix of typefaces, weight, positioning, and scale to create good hierarchy and dynamic compositions.

Description

Franklin Gothic ATF (American Type Foundation version) is a practical, all-purpose typeface. It has a long history of usage in the city, especially in print publications. Its clean, simple characters help ground our other, more decorative typefaces. Use it to add a more straightforward, sensible aesthetic to communications.

PROPER LOGO USAGE

It's important to present our logos properly and consistently. This page shows some common ways to misuse them. To avoid these, always use the provided artwork without modification. The principles demonstrated by these examples apply to all of our logos.

Never stretch, skew, or rotate the logo.

Brooklyn College

Never set the logo in more than one color.

Brooklyn
College

Never add effects such as drop shadows or bevels.

Brooklyn
College

Never change the proportions or arrangement of the logo's elements.

Brooklyn
College

Never use colors other than those approved for use in this document.

Brooklyn
College

Never add elements or create your own lockups.

Brooklyn
College

Never change the typefaces used in our logos.

Brooklyn
College | School of Education

Never place the logo on a background with inadequate clear space or contrast.

Never use the Brooklyn College + The City University of New York logo shown here.

ATHLETICS AND SPIRIT MARKS

The logos shown here are reserved for Brooklyn College athletics. They have their own guidelines (not included in this document) that should be followed.

These logos should only be used when explicitly talking about athletics or school spirit at the college. Do not use the Buster the Bulldog mark for enrollment marketing materials unless they are promoting athletics. This imagery and messaging does not resonate with the vast majority of our more practical, academic-minded best-fit prospective students.

Buster and the athletics marks may be used internally, on campus, and with relevant alumni materials. They may also be used in materials for recruiting prospective athletes or for reaching athletics donors. These marks should never be the sole graphic element used in a communications piece. Try to include a relevant photo that features either athletics or school spirit to tell a fuller story.

To obtain permission and copies of the official logo files, please contact the college's Office of Communications and Marketing.

villanova

- really good for my major
- closer to home
- beautiful campus
- good sports (basketball)
- unsure about the party scene
- not that many things to do around the campus
- not a huge fan of philly
- cold

miami

- also pretty good for my major
- far from ny
- great student life
- school spirit + sports
- miami 🥰🥰
- so many options of fun
- can get lost in the party

also I got money from both schools so I'm not worried about $$

help me choose a college

USC

- Pop Voice major
- Smaller program in a big school
- Good weather
- Best location for my major (LA)
- Big campus experience
- Able to do more extra curriculars and minors out of music
- Expensive asf.
- Less prestigious for music than Berklee
- I vibe with the faculty alot

Berklee College of Music

- Voice major
- Emphasis in music business
- More prestige for music
- Alumni more successful
- I got 10k in merit
- More city campus vibe and near other big colleges
- Surrounded by music people and creatives

help me choose a college

UC San Diego

Pros

- La Jolla <33
- closer to home (5 hour drive)
- Housing is on campus
- right near beach
- decent bio program
- i could see myself going there when i visited

Cons

- not a super good school
- not that social/party scene
- no football team
- kinda dude bro/surfer vibe

UC Berkeley

Pros

- it's berkeley (academic notability)
- surrounded by people like me
- very intellectual school
- campus itself is beautiful
- more social

Cons

- didn't really feel at home there
- housing is off campus
- the city of berkely isn't great at all
- far from home have to fly

Help me choose my college 🥰💖

i have like 5 days to decide, HELP ME PICK A COLLEGE

univ of florida

- PROS
- Florida is a beautiful state
- top 5 public university in country
- renowned STEM programs
- strong research focus
- designated for STEM majors
- didn't get a scholarship but it will change my life
- COF
- accessible opportunities in school and free
- campus life: tons of clubs
- big game school + huge diversity + strong alumni network
- has a variety of majors
- small college campus
- big football school
- probably a little further in city center than
- less distractions and
- more academically challenging

- CONS
- gambler
- seems like a hometown
- slow paced city
- 70% chance of me having a class over 150 students as a STEM major
- drivable distance from home
- in having a little trouble making friends but I can't give it out
- 2000 acres school
- quickly required insurance and some other stuff
- campus isn't seem as busy as
- seems very nice

univ of miami

- PROS
- beautiful campus
- or average college town
- easy access of studying in coastal for years
- low school for marine bio
- smaller campus/student body
- BEAUTIFUL and smaller campus, more modern, easier for me to manage
- have already made a bunch of friends
- 12:1 ratio so more intimate class settings
- better study abroad program
- a flight away from some of the super football school and supportive alumni
- small school but diverse student body demographic
- make up
- chances of me meeting a celebrity and becoming a rich housewife are higher here LOL

- CONS
- lots of distractions being in miami
- more expensive in the long run
- more expensive and generous scholarship offer but still super expensive to live in miami
- a bunch of rich kids
- gives off that snobby entitled kid vibe
- i may have to re-route my career path
- smaller
- ranked top 50 in country
- not really a "big thing"
- not sure how "we vet" works here

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Institutionalization (DEII) Survey Report

Fall 2023

John Jay College of Criminal Justice

FINAL PROJECT

DEII SURVEY TOOLKIT UPDATE

For my last project, I had to work with the whole team to update a survey sheet. It was a very collaborative process, and everyone was active and ready whenever we needed something changed or had questions in general. My main task was to update the body copy to have the up-to-date information given and to come up with the layout of said body copy.

Nine Modules

The nine modules provide a framework to evaluate DEI:

- Institutional Leadership and Infrastructure
- Institutional Policies and Programs
- Faculty and Staff Recruitment
- Faculty and Staff Retention
- Student Admissions/Recruitment
- Student Retention and Completion
- Student Support
- Curriculum
- Budgetary Policies and Procedures

Institutional Assessment

- The institutional level assessment was designed for completion by a representative team.
- Building a dedicated team will be key to making the right inferences from the data and building credibility on campus about the results.
- An integral step is to identify individuals responsible for consulting with the appropriate offices on campus to make a valid assessment for each of the items.
- Effective teams are usually comprised of members with various levels of authority from the administration, faculty, staff, and in some cases, students.
- Representative perspectives result in meaningful conversations and helps to eliminate the pitfalls of siloed communications.

Faculty, Staff, & Student Assessments

- Parallel assessments were developed to accompany the Institutional Assessment.
- Alignment gaps are beneficial in identifying differential outcomes for the different constituencies.

Accreditation

- Identifying areas of strength and areas of challenge is a critical first step in improving the campus climate with respect to diversity, equity, and inclusion.
- An institution can prioritize its DEI goals and actions when it has a valid and reliable measurement of their DEI.
- Assessing and addressing DEI at the institutional level will provide evidence of meeting DEI accreditation standards.

Original layout

Thank you for participating in the DEII administration on your campus. We are returning results of the administration of DEII in three sections. First, we will be sending a summary of the results as described below using an overview of DEII efforts on your campus and scores on the ten scales. Second, we will send a brief executive summary based on the same data. Third, we will send item level data. The summary reporting and the item reporting are both sent as Tableau documents which allow you to filter the data by the demographics described in Section I below. In order to use the files, you should open the files from Tableau. For any questions regarding the report or data, please contact [email placeholder]

Introduction

The summary report (the first report described above) contains summary data for the four types of surveys below (or the subset that you chose to use):

- Institutional assessment
- Faculty assessment
- Staff assessment
- Student assessment

Section I: Demographics

Section I shows the frequencies and percent of participants who completed the DEII surveys. The tables include the following groupings:

1. Survey Type: Participants completing each of the surveys Reported by Institution
2. Gender
3. Race
4. Major Area Self-Reported on Survey
5. Gender Identity
6. Sexual Orientation
7. Religion

Section II: Overall Descriptive Statistics

Section II is a table reporting the means, standard deviations and Ns for the overall rating of DEI and the ten scales. The overall ratings are on a 10-point scale based on an item included in each of the surveys. The overall rating is from the following item:

Overall rating: On a scale from 1 to 10, with 10 being the highest, what is your overall rating of the diversity, equity, and inclusion at your institution?

The ten scales are based on the average rating from a series of items for each module measured in the four surveys. Each of the modules have been scaled to a six-point scale. The institutional survey is based on questions about the implementation of DEI strategies (see survey) with higher values showing higher implementation. In contrast, the faculty, staff and student surveys are based on the different stakeholder ratings of satisfaction with the implementation of DEI strategies or agreement with statements about the DEI environment with higher values showing higher satisfaction or agreement. The ten scales, or modules, are:

1. Institutional Environment: Leadership and Infrastructure
2. Institutional Environment: Policies and Programs
3. Belongingness
4. Faculty and Staff: Recruitment
5. Faculty and Staff: Retention
6. Students: Admissions/Recruitment
7. Student: Retention/Persistence/Retention
8. Students: Student Support
9. Curriculum
10. Budgetary Policies and Procedures

Section III. Overall DEI Graphics with Comparisons by Demographics

Section III provides a graphic presentation of the means for the overall DEI ratings (i.e., the first row from Section II) by survey type, gender, and race. Hovering over the bars will show the statistics for each bar. As with the prior sections, bar charts for specific groups can be attained using the available filters.

Section IV. DEI Scale Score Graphics with Comparisons by Demographics

Section IV provides a graphic presentation of the means on DEI scales (i.e., the bottom 10 rows from Section II) by survey type, gender, and race. All filters from previous sections are available here. There are blank boxes for some filters – try to keep this box selected when choosing filter values to preserve spacing between scales.

TAKEAWAYS

AND WHERE DO I GO FROM HERE?

- 1. The importance of teamwork and just overall being ready when help is needed.
- 2. The value of feedback especially from a mentor that knows exactly what the client wants.
- 3. Overall, the internship has given me enough confidence to find a job where teamwork is crucial.
