And this might be a helpful distinction: most of what we use and will be getting folks a little bit into during this session is both PC and Mac friendly but probably our key app, which we will be using in the follow up session "on site" in the Met is decidedly iPhone (or Tablet) vs Android. I'm thinking that is when we may need some equipment sharing or doubling up—or we could explore Android variations then. Jeff

Hi Tom. I'm chuckling. Despite all of our work we are still so simple. I think we are fine without cables? One can access the app we use via iPhone so may do some of that with folks but we will not be connecting in to presentation via iPhone so should be fine. Hope that makes sense! But thanks - Jeff

Hi Jeff,

We're very much looking forward to this exciting workshop next week. I just wanted to clarify which cables you may need for your iPhones, so I can have our A/V department provide them for you. They have Lightning to HDMI adapters for iPhones, as well as USB-C to HDMI adapters.

Best,

Tom

Thanks Lisa

Let me talk to Jason and circle back to you on set up.

Re equipment- Much of what we will do in this session will be more presentation oriented (Mac friendly on our part) showing scope of possibilities and then be more interactive in the follow up session in the museum where personal laptops or tablets - particularly Mac/Apple helpful.

One other thing is that we do a lot of this with or through an I Phone now so those are helpful. Thanks Jeff

Dear Jeffrey,

Many thanks for your note. We do have a room for you. You are confirmed in room 9207 of the Graduate Center from 1 PM to 3 PM. Please let Patrick and Tom (both of whom are cc'd here) about your room set-up and technology needs. For example, will you be bringing your own laptop or will you need to borrow one? Will you need a projector? sound system? any other special technical requirements?

Also, we have a room that is not "pre-set" so to speak. Do you have a preference as to how we should configure the room? We can do a U shape, theater seating, or round banquet tables. We'll need to turn in the facilities requests either today or tomorrow.

We're looking forward to your workshop, and look forward to meeting you!

Best wishes,
Lisa

Fantastic, thanks so much for sending this!

We can email participants before the workshop to let them know we prefer macs, and for those who don't have a Mac we can loan them out from our laptop cart.

Hi Patrick -

Here's a brief abstract. We can set up a follow up session(s) in the spring at the Met for a weekend morning or afternoon? at the end of our talk based on folks interest and numbers. As for equipment in Feb, we prefer Mac based for keynote and linking - hope Mac base ok? And all comers - no prerequisites. Very user friendly.

Thanks - Jeff

Analytical Modeling of Historic Buildings and Artifacts

Geared towards anyone who is interested in learning more about digital modeling of the historic built world —this workshop samples some of our recent projects in New York and abroad, along with a more detailed case study of on going work with Metropolitan Museum of Art conservator Pascale Patris. At the end of the talk we will set up a follow up session using the museum galleries for an "on site" demonstration of the documentation process and 3d printed study modeling that anyone can master in a few hours and tailor to their own teaching and research.

Hi Jeff,

My name is Lisa Rhody, and I am a colleague of Lizzie's. If I may interject briefly, I might suggest Friday as a better day. In our attempt to increase visibility for the workshop, we suggested NYC DH week. The downside of using this week is just that Monday afternoon will include a kickoff keynote and mini conference at Fordham. I worry that that event could detract from your likely attendees. If Friday were possible, I suspect that with the additional NYC DH advertising, attendance could be high(er) on a Friday.

All best,
Lisa

Hello Patrick - Re: Dates.....We are "at our best" afternoons either Monday Feb 4th or Friday Feb 8th. Preference would be Monday because Friday can be a "get out of Dodge early" kind of thing for a lot of people so Monday better for attendance. Thanks Jeff

- number of anticipated attendees
- short abstract
- longer abstract
- AV / room set up requirements
- how long the workshop will take
- any prerequisites

Thanks so much, we're looking forward to hosting the workshop with you!
