ABSTRACT

Our open to buy retail project takes on the lack of swimwear needs for children with disabilities.

As buyers for Splash Safe™ retail store, we have decided to stock our store with the finest quality of life-saving swim gear that provides our consumers with the ability to enjoy themselves while splashing around. Carefully considering the needs of our exceptional clients, we here at Splash Safe™ have come up with specific merchandise that meets their requirements. Some products we typically carry are flotation swimsuits, swim diapers, sarong wraps, and swim goggles that feature a nose protector. In order to run our store successfully, it was pertinent that we had our finances and inventory organized. By calculating Splash Safe™ open to buy for each month, average monthly sales, average monthly orders, and markdown percentages for each month, and charting our SKU's for the spring/summer season, we were able to run our retail store successfully.

Senior Creative Director/ Inventory Specialist

As the Senior Creative Director/Inventory Specialist at Splash Safe™, my job is to oversee and ensure that all advertising and marketing as well as inventory distribution is completed. My role for this project was to create and organize an open-to-buy concept for a special needs swimwear line, researching the specific needs of our consumer, and buy and stock merchandise for the store. Working in partnership with my Splash Safe™ team combining our strategic visions and executive leadership, skills we were able to communicate and produce high-performance standards that allowed us for a profitable first year. Coming out of this project, I was able to help lead a team of creative professionals who worked diligently to help make the brand a huge success.

Pedro Collado
Financial Manager

As the lead Financial Manager here at Splash Safe™, my role in this project was to run all of the numbers and calculate our profits for the store. It is my responsibility to price the merchandise at a reasonable and affordable price point for the company's target market. A brief summary of what is done is by calculating the open to buy for each month, which is done by first finding the planned reductions; you must add the employee discount, markdowns, and shortages. Once you find the answer, you will then add that up along with the planned end of month stock to get the total monthly needs. The information learned from completing this retail project, I would use going forward for a future job or maybe even for myself when starting up my own retail business.

Product Development Manager

As the Product Development Manager here at Splash Safe™, my task is to supervise and oversee the efficient flow of materials and products between factories and material sources. Track and facilitate sampling and prototyping of products, identifying issues in design, construction, or manufacturing, adjusting to deliver proven and tested product. Build Merchandise Proposals for current & new products to launch by a partner with our Research & Merchandise team. I learned how a product could greatly impact a child's life and the parent's life as well. The products by splash will help alleviate stress at the time of training. It will also help make a difference and help the kids feel more confident at the time of training.

Halle Ward
Research Analyst

Conducted background research on the market and functions of special needs swim attire. Analyzed the background information and applied it to the group project. Throughout my research I noticed a wide range of prices starting at $5-400. Depending on the disability the pricing for swim gear and equipment can get extremely expensive. The garments created in this project can help minimize the disparity in prices of swimsuits and equipment for those with special needs. This project was eye opening and helpful. I gained a more beneficial insight and can apply this knowledge to my own business. My team members were extremely helpful throughout this process.

CONSUMER PROFILE

We here at Splash Safe™ are in the market of manufacturing family friendly swimsuits and accessories to provide the ultimate fun in the sun experience for children and young adults with disabilities. These special needs people typically range between the ages of 2 through 18; having a selection of swimwear that can be used for both males and females creates a high demand for our product. Where the average swimwear provider lacks with its inclusion of people with disabilities we step in catering to the unanswered cries for affordable special needs swimwear. Splash Safe™ aims to target the disability market for those high and low functioning special needs people some with limited or monitored schooling and employment. These consumers typically have a caregiver or handler that helps them out in regards to the decision buying process and would generally live in a state such as Florida either at home or an assisted living facility. Here we have young Sarah Dylan a four-year-old little girl with Down syndrome. Sarah loves Barbie's, fruit snacks, the color pink, and splashing around in the water. She lives in Key Largo, Florida with her mom Patricia and dad Henry who recently enrolled their baby girl at the local YMCA for swimming lessons specific for children with special needs. Sarah's parents combined total income averages around $159,000 - $185,000 and they both work within the education field, which is why they so strongly believe physical and mental activities such as swimming would be great for their little girl. The Dylan's believe in encouraging and nurturing their child's interests in order for her to continue to strive and reach her maximum potential in life. They are always looking for new and exciting ways to gain the necessary resources for young Sarah to be able to feel as normal as possible around her peers.

RESEARCH

Swim gear and attire for special needs children's have been in high demand but limited due to lack of availability within the swimwear market. Unfortunately, not all people are able to afford swimwear for their loved ones with special needs because of high prices due to the lack of availability. Our company focuses on making accessible, fashionable and affordable swimsuits for people with special needs. Splash Safe™ is a retail store dedicated to helping kids with special needs reach their maximum potential; which is what prompted Splash Safe™ to decide to introduce their life saving swimwear products for both girls, boys and even unisex apparel.

Our retail store is located on 31 Ocean Reef Drive, Key Largo, Florida 33037. We noticed the importance of swimming for special needs children as both recreational fun and a healthy physical activity. Learning how to swim is an important life and safety skill that all should be privy too. Swimming helps these kids to release energy and stay physically active and also helps them with their individualized goals. The National Autism Association has disclosed that drowning is the leading cause of death in children with autism among children in the U.S. under age 5.

We understand that learning how to swim and water safety skills is a vital step to make an impact on these statistics for the very young and those with special needs. We noticed that we can help to contribute to the individualized goals of every child by providing swimwear that can help build courage for this new step in their life. Children despite having their disability still want to be treated the same like other children. The benefits of teaching special needs children swimming range from gross motor skills to cognitive skills, to muscle strength and endurance and improvement in overall communication skills.

Furthermore, these items are designed to help kids in times of a life threatening situation. Some products we decided to stock our retail store up with include “The racer” swim tank tops, “The hero” swim shorts which are trunks lined with an absorbing fabric for our young boys, and “Lil’ swimmies” swim diapers both girls and boys. For young girls we carry “The diva” a two piece swimsuit that features a ruffle swim skirt attached, “The charmed” a one piece swimsuit with a built in flotation collar and lined with a absorbing fabric, “The chic one” a sarong wrap skirt/dress typically used as a cover up, and “Lil swimmies” swim diapers. For the unisex collection we have “The galactik” a floating swim trainer suit and “The ranger” one piece bodysuit with a built in floatie. The accessories include swim caps, a swim brace, swim goggles with nose protector feature and swimming shoes.

Our swimwear has a built in flotation element ensuring the safety of the kids. The fabrics we utilized for our product line is nylon, cotton, spandex, neoprene, and polyester. The swimsuits are constructed from nylon, neoprene, and polyester which will provide our consumers with a comfortable fit and fast drying elements. The nylon, the fabric utilized for the swimwear will help ensure comfortability while they swim. The neoprene fabric used is a type of synthetic rubber that exhibits good chemical stability and maintains flexibility over a wide temperature range. Another fabric used is polyester it will help prevent the color from fading. The swimwear we have in our store is washable and disposable.

Splash Safe™ swimsuits will also have built-in tech that will be programmed for the child's specific movement if the swimsuit detects any irregularities in movement the bathing suits will be programmed to activate the flotation system to protect the child from drowning. The purpose of the high tech swimwear is to help increase the swimmers glide through the water and to lower the absorption of water by the suit on the contrary to regular swimsuits. A selection of the merchandise will have a floating system that will open in case of an emergency. The flotation will be customized to the body movements of each individual child and will monitor for any life threatening occurrences. The garments created by our company focus on accommodating those with bowel or urinary incontinence and can support a child's head and neck depending on the physical condition. The swim diaper helps those with bowel incontinence ensure that the kids can swim while being protected avoiding the bacteria from entering the water.

The garments created by our company focuses on accommodating our young consumers and their caregivers. Top key players in the global swimwear market do not make swimwear for children and adults with special needs. This untapped market is extremely profitable yet there are not many companies that sell special needs swimsuits. Based on our research some different types of swimming products our competitors have on the market today for people with special needs are:

1. Aquatic Head Float

The aquatic head float may be able to help your child keep their head above the water. It also stops your child from tipping backwards or sideways. The Aquatic Head Float allows free range of movement so the child is able to swim or do therapy exercises.

2. Sectional Raft

This raft may be a great fit for children who can't swim, but wants to be in the water. It may make a child more comfortable being in water while providing support to the body. It comes with shoulder straps to help keep the child on the raft.

3. Aqua Ring Floats

The aqua ring float is a white ring with multiple floats on it that goes around the body. The child can hold onto the ring and walk in the water. It is meant for children (or adults) who can support themselves in an upright position, but needs assistance walking in water.

4. Adapted Life Jacket

Life Jacket-Adapted Inc. offers a number of life jackets that may work for your child. You can check them out by clicking the link above. The jackets are designed for different needs and focus on safety around potential unique needs a child may have.

5. Sprint Aquatics Water Walking Assistant

This walking assistance goes around the body and has floats. It has two bars on each side so the child can hold on. It is meant to help improve balance and allow the child to walk. It may even help your child gain strength in their legs.

6. Dolphin Float System by Danmar

This jacket has floats on the chest and the side to help a child with uneven weight distribution. It can even help with lateral rotation. The child should have head and trunk control to use this float system (Stern, 2016).

However, swimwear requires some special kind of systematic processing and designing of raw materials and fabrics such as polyester, nylon, polypropylene, spandex, and neoprene to produce the desired texture, design, look, and other fashion attributes of swimwear. Price volatility of these raw materials affects the size of the market to a greater extent. Huge investments are required for R&D to cater the fluctuating demand for different designs, which leads to high cost of designing, thereby hampering the growth of the market (“Swimwear Market Size”, 2019).

The construction of special needs swimsuits can be very expensive due to the requirement of high-quality durable fabrics and costs of production. These types of swimsuits require detail in order for the garments to be useful. Incontinence swimwear requires snaps or Velcro in the designs to ensure convenience. The garments must be easy to put on and remove along with having enough space to conceal swim diapers. Swim diapers are hydrophilic anti-absorbent diapers; there are two types of diapers; disposable and reusable. Based on our research reusable diapers are more economical and preferred by the consumers. Swim diapers retail for anywhere between $5-$40. Other types of incontinence swimsuits are jammers and shorts. Incontinence shorts are meant to be discreet and can be worn under standard swimsuits. Jammers are form fitting swim shorts. They are mostly made out of neoprene and medical grade silicon. Jammers offer sun protectant and can be worn by adults and teens. Jammers are unisex and fashionable they retail for $23-$45.

Float suits are form-fitting rompers with foam flotation piece on the front and back upper body of the garment. These pieces help give the person wearing it a natural balance while being in water. The flotation swimsuit has side zippers to ensure easy removal. The buoyancy can be adjusted as the swimming abilities improve. The placement of the foam pieces helps with the development of a more natural swimming position. The fabrics used in these garments are usually nylon, neoprene or poly lyre because both fabrics are fast drying. This style of garment retails for $40-$70. Float jackets are the jacket version of the float suit. Some float jackets have foam flotation padding that support the neck and keep pressure off the shoulder. Float jackets are swim vests with flotation foam pieces on the inside of the garment. The float jacket has a zipper and sometimes a Velcro strap for easy removal and may retail for $25-$185.

Throughout this research we came to the conclusion that there is a wide range of prices consumers would have to pay for depending on the garment. Some are more expensive than others. Our company hopes to change the price disparity in the swimsuit market and make products for those with disabilities more affordable and accessible. These swimsuits and swim accessories designed for our special clients, to be able to have a sense of normalcy also giving them the opportunity to blend in with other kids. THE NUMBERS

PART C

The formula for C1, or the New Projected Average Sales Plan for the next season is =

Total of all Planned Sales (six months) X's the (Feb. – July) 6.2%.

The sum you get from the above calculation will be your company's new projected sales plan for the next season.

1,650,000 (Sum of six months) x 6.2% = 102,3000

1,650,000 + 102,300 = 1,752,300

Company's new projected sales for next season = $1,752,300

The formula for C2, is to subtract from $1,820,000.00 the sum you got in C1.

$$1,820,000.00 - 1,752,300 = \mathbf{$67,700}$

In 2020 our company Splash Safe™ generated actual sales in the amount of $1,820,000.00. In the following year, we saw a decrease in sales of $170,000.00. Due to unforeseen circumstances regarding the Covid-19 virus, Splash Safe™ was forced to close its doors for a few months. Our regular customers cut their normal shopping down, and new customers weren't likely to shop since they were forced into quarantine for the majority of the season. Since Covid-19 was a worldwide pandemic, foreign sales also decreased.

Moving forward, Splash Safe™ plans to take all the necessary precautions in order to protect their customers and employees. As the following season approaches we are projected to see sales increase by 6.2%, which will bring the actual sales to $1,752,300. If that is the case, then we will continue to push harder to improve our sales and ultimately beat our company's previous sales from 2020. The decrease in sales would be $67,000.00. Splash Safe™ plans to accomplish its goals by improving the company's website interface, enabling better ways to collect cookies for direct access to our consumers.

As well as, setting up automated emails upon subscription to notify customers of upcoming promotions and sales. Maintaining relationships with customers will also be beneficial to the company. Lastly, Splash Safe™ plans on expanding its social media presence which will play a crucial role in the company's marketing and sales efforts. Providing our target market with advertisements, sponsored promotions, and customer reviews will aid our company in informing new people about the Splash Safe™ brand.
