Hi Kel,

Thank you very much for your attention and efforts, I truly appreciate it and I will hope for success. These sources do appear regularly in academic bibliographies, so I know they're out there!

Have a nice holiday, and thanks again,

Hi [REDACTED],

I was able to find a record with more libraries on it – so I'm sending out the requests again – hopefully we'll finally have luck with these ones.

Thanks,
Kel

Hi [REDACTED],

Can you send me the links to WorldCat where you were able to get those citations? The links have additional information that is more helpful for us in matching records or also looking at additional formats.

When I'm searching based on your citation, I get one hit from an international library – so I can try to put those through but there's no guarantee that they'll be filled – and also that only tells us that they have a record for that title not that they have the particular year you're looking for. That's why we've been trying to get additional information to try to match the records in other ways because we're just not getting anything based solely on the citations.

Thanks,

Kel

Hi Kel,

Here is the bibliographical info as listed on Worldcat:

1.

Saint-Étienne de Nevers

Author: Francis Salet

Publisher: 1967.

Edition/Format: Article : French

Publication: Session / Congrès Archéologique de France. Société Française d'Archéologie / Congrès Archéologique de France. 125.1967, 162-184.

2.

Author: Louis Serbat

Publisher: [1916?]

Edition/Format: Article : French

Publication: Session / Congrès Archéologique de France. Société Française d'Archéologie / Congrès Archéologique de France. 80.1913/16([1916?]), 300-373.

As you can see, the basic information is the same, with the addition of the publisher: Société Française d'Archéologie. Both are conference publications that are in foreign libraries. These are articles within the conference publications so I would of course like to get digital copies of just the selected pages.

Thanks,

Hi [REDACTED]

As we don't speak French, these citations are harder for us to navigate. Do you have links to any of these sources that could help us with that? It looks like it's some kind of proceedings - are they published in a journal? Or in a book? Are you able to find them in <https://www.worldcat.org/>?

Thank you,
Kel

Hi Anita,

Here is a copy of a recent bibliographical entry on the first publication I am seeking:

Francis Salet, "Saint-Etienne de Nevers", Congrès archéologique de France, CXXVe session, 1967 Nivernais, Paris

1967, pp. 167-184.

And here are two entries for the other previously cancelled publication:

Louis Serbat, "Nevers, cathédrale", in: Congrès archéologique de France LXXXe session, 1913, Paris 1916, pp. 301-399.

Louis Serbat, "Eglise de Saint-Etienne", in: Congrès archéologique de France LXXXe session, 1913, Moulins et Nevers, Paris 1916.

As for this second one, I assume that both citations refer to the same source.

Is this helpful? Please let me know: sources on this subject are scarce, and I am fairly desperate to obtain these!

Thank you for your efforts and attention,

We were unable to pull up any records in Iliad with this title. If possible can you provide additional information and/or the link to the original citation?

Thank you,

Hi ILL,

I have seen the below cancelled ILL request cited in various publications with precisely this same bibliographical information, and the same is true for another, similar ILL request. Please let me know why it cannot be found.

Thanks,
