To Whom It May Concern:

Having experience and education is the best way to start preparing for the real world. All of these learning skills will help and benefit you in any field that you get into. At the New York City College Of Technology we provide students with hands down experience to succeed in the Communication Design Field and we push them to give them all the knowledge they need for the food.

City Tech students are the perfect students to look for as interns. Our communication design major is strong at preparing students right away starting from their first design class. We have a lot of great professors here that can help students develop their design skills even further. We also have labs full of computers with all the adobe suite software's to help students practice and keep developing their design skills Our Communication Design major is split into different categories such as web design, graphic design, advertising design and animation. This will help develop the creative mind of a graphic art student because in this major they will learn little bits of everything.

Each student who qualifies has met the following requirements:
- Four courses in area of internship with grades of "B" or better.
- 100 hours minimum in the workplace.
- Must involve substantive work supervised by a qualified workplace mentor.
- Mentors must provide a short weekly evaluation of each intern.

Any employers out there looking for an intern and looking at City Tech students will guarantee them a lot of success because by selecting a City Tech student as your intern you will be guaranteed one of the most creative minds there is to offer.
