I have attached two files of my analysis of the podcasts I've listened to.

- "Depression Memes and Me: Why I Stopped Looking at Depression Memes" by Zuheera Ali
- "The Ides of March: Ann uprising to save the Earth" by The Said Topic
- "Juul Podcast" by Lucas Paul and Christian

The podcasts were very interesting and kept me engaged. I would love to emulate the music that both Ali and Paul had in both their introductions and outros. The first podcast was more of a storytelling and personal type of podcast meanwhile the others have activists and students that they interview. This made me more heartfelt and kept me engaged. An aspect I would avoid is the title that Paul had titled his own podcast. It felt like it could've been better and had more effort. They each had podcasts ranging from 3-5 minutes which wasn't long, and they each managed to get their point across. This has influenced me to keep my podcast to keep it in the 3-5 min range and to include relevant questions in my podcast.
