Introduction to Culinary tourism:

Brooklyn Winery

Brooklyn winery

Location: 213 N 8th St. Brooklyn, NY
11211

The urban winery produces small batch wines in Williamsburg, NY. Conor McCormack is the winemaker. They have tour of the winery to learn about how wines are made, they have seating at wine bar where you can savor their artisanal wines They also have seasonal menu which can be paired with their house-made wines.

Old Charm:

>>old reclaimed pre-WWI chalk board made of real slate

<<Recycle old tin panels:
made to look older by brushing salt and old fish tank

Wood Reuse

<< Only buy used barrels
They also reuse old barrels to make tables tops >>

- The guide said that most of their wood comes from:
  1. Demolished buildings
  2. Barrels
  3. Reclaimed wood from old furnishings

Wood Reuse: Interior

<< They also buy antique or repurposed furniture >>

<< WWII antique pill boxes

>> This is reclaimed wood That they use as paneling. Or furniture

The Industrial days

<< This is a repurpose and refurbished machinery cover of a paint factory. Now used as a table>>

They kept or reused industrial metals or fixtures.
Much of their furniture is repurposed like their wood.

How To Be Greener

<< Fermentation
Tanks
tall for whites
short for reds

>> Juicer in front with sorter and harvester in the back

- Composting
  - Cork compost
- Get more local food/grapes
  - Long Island
  - Finger lakes
  - California
- Consider screw top caps
