Re: American Journal of Chinese Studies

Monica Berger

Mon 4/27/2020 12:29 PM

To:Zheng Zhu <ZZhu@citytech.cuny.edu>;

Cc:Ann Delilkan <ADelilkan@citytech.cuny.edu>;

1 attachments (114 KB)

Identifying predatory for authors, final.pdf;

hi Zheng: I would encourage you to use Think.Check.Submit http://think.check.submit always before submitting to a journal. More importantly, the journals you are familiar with when you do your literature review should play into where you should submit.

Without spending more than a minute, by googling the journal, it clearly is not predatory. It is indexed in JSTOR and published by a professional society http://www.ajchinesestudies.org/do note that there is no detailed information about the journal's peer review process on its site which is rather lacking in detail. It only says that the journal is refereed. these are important details you will want to document.

Attached is a new handout I created that will eventually get disseminated more broadly. Ann received a copy at P & B (this is the author's version). best, Monica

Monica Berger
Associate Professor
Library
New York City College of Technology, City University of New York
300 Jay Street
Brooklyn, NY 11201

From: Zheng Zhu
Sent: Monday, April 27, 2020 1:46:02 AM
To: Monica Berger
Cc: Ann Delilkan
Subject: American Journal of Chinese Studies

Dear Monica,

My article has been accepted for publication by _American Journal of Chinese Studies._

I do believe this is a strong journal.

But as always, I am happy to verify it with you first, with my department chair, Prof. Delilkan cc-ed.

Thank you and hope you stay safe and healthy!

Best,

Zheng Zhu, PhD
Assistant Professor of Humanities, COM
New York City College of Technology, CUNY
Email:ZZhu@citytech.cuny.edu
Phone:718-260-5029