Video Project

For this video project I had to create something that represented me. So, I decided to shoot a short clip of me working on some college work. This would show that I am a student. I then added couple of photographs of my works into the video. My works would show that I am Graphic Designer student. Editing the video was fun but I had issues with getting rid of the applications name from the final video. I didn't want the name of the application to display on the video but I couldn't find an alternative solution to it.
