

Steven Alava.

*Trinity College Library
Cambridge, England*

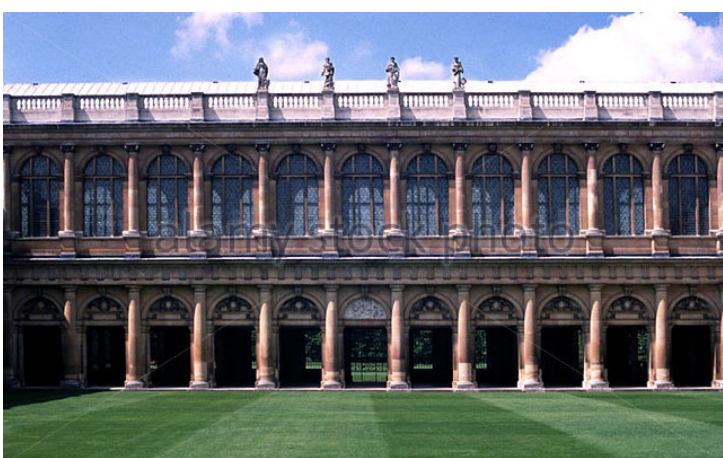

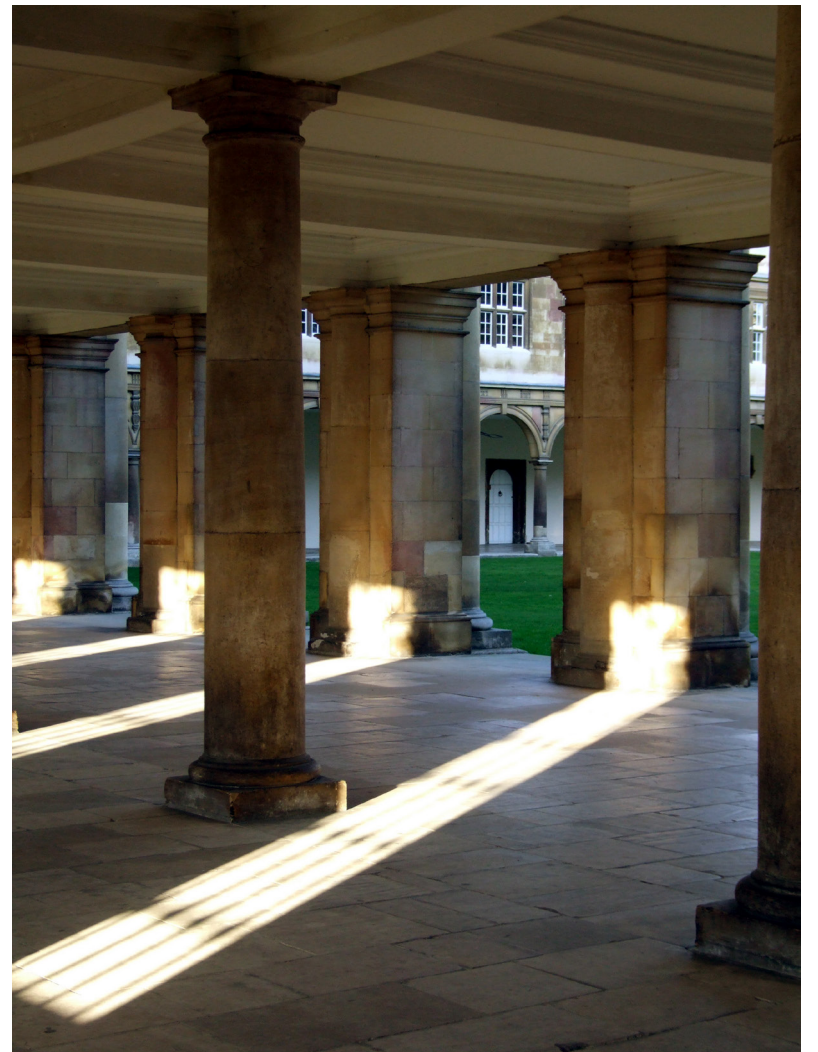

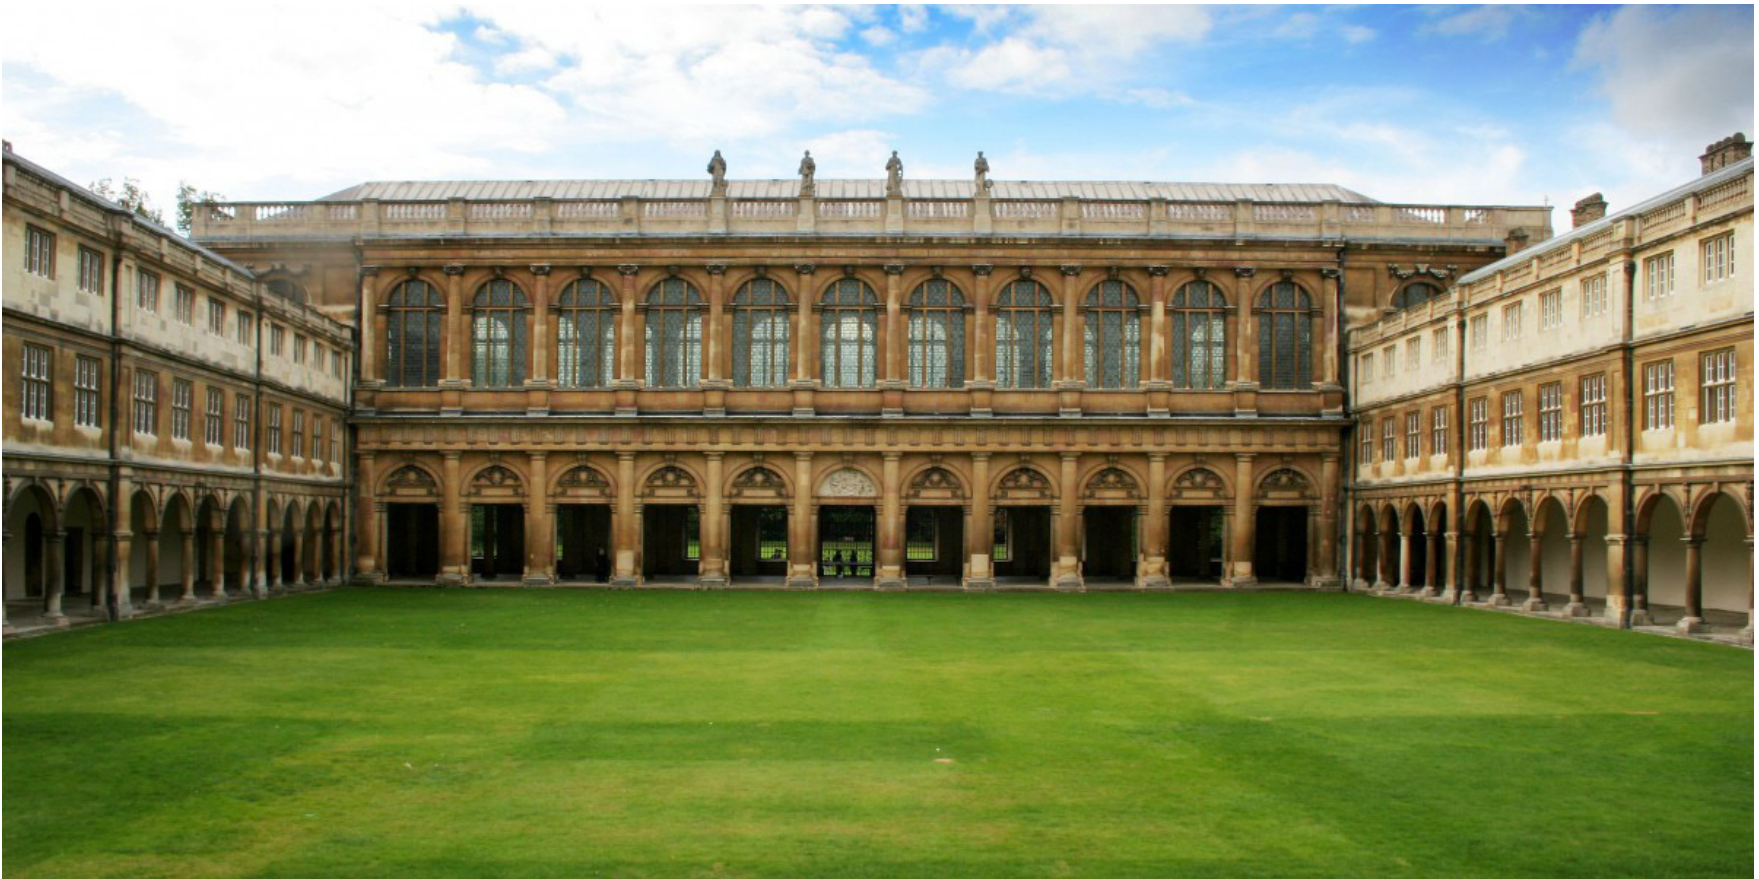

Christopher Wren

October 20, 1632, - March 8, 1723,

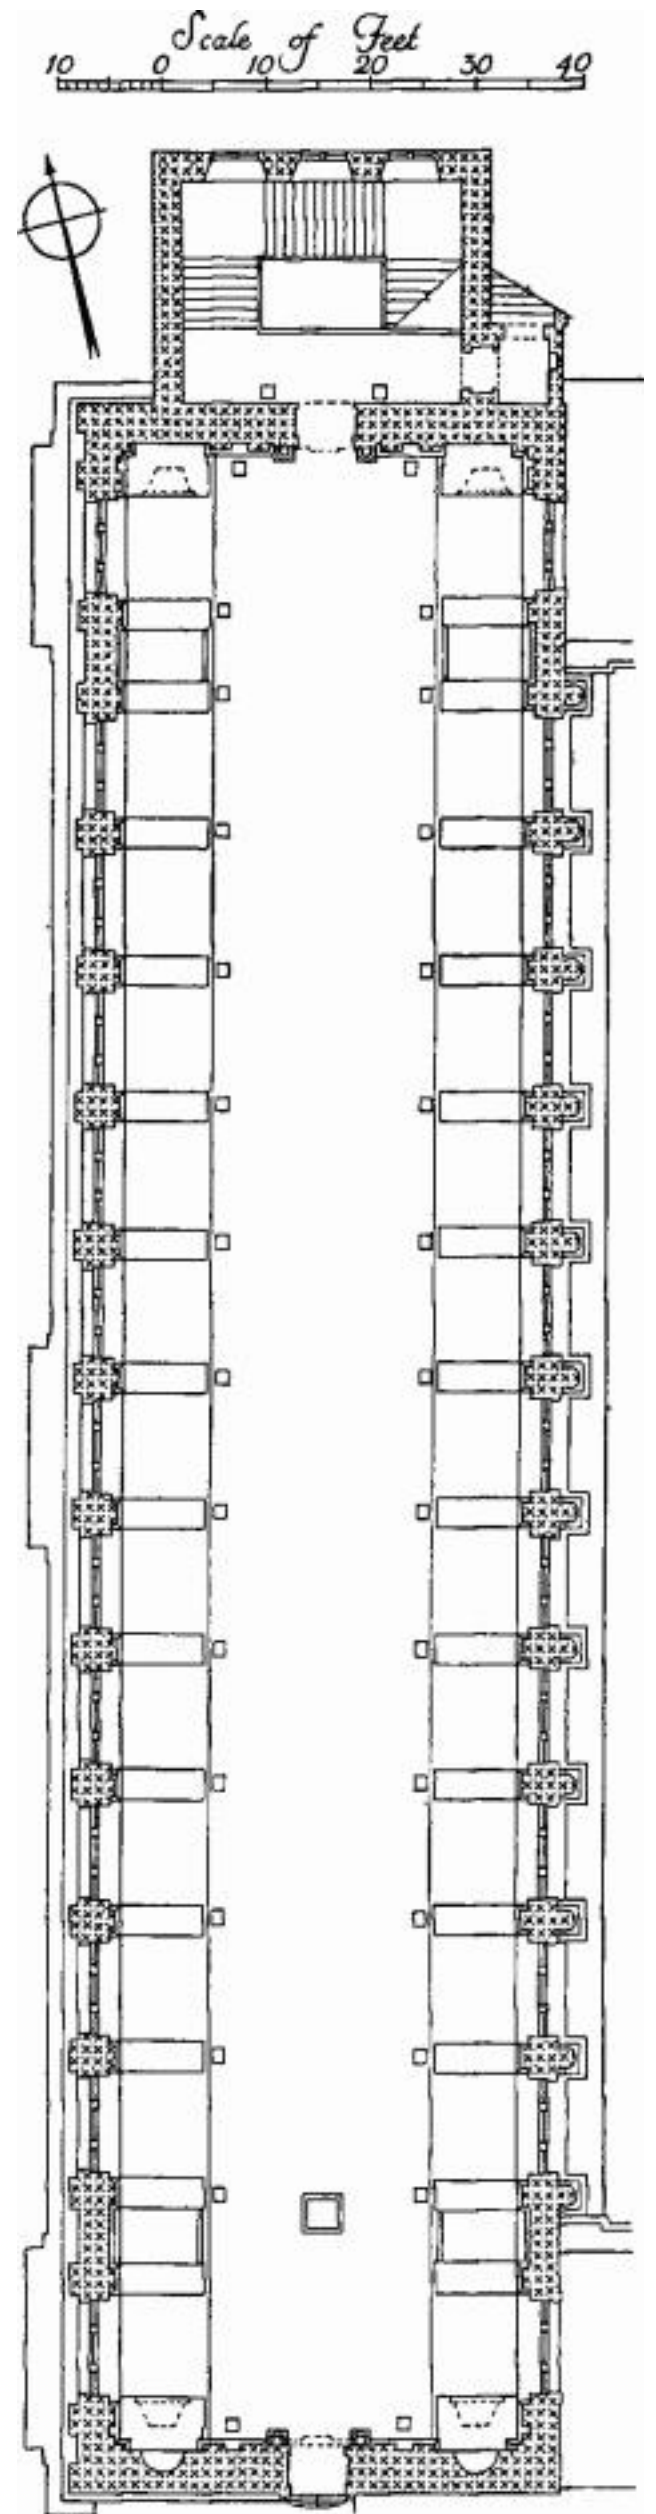

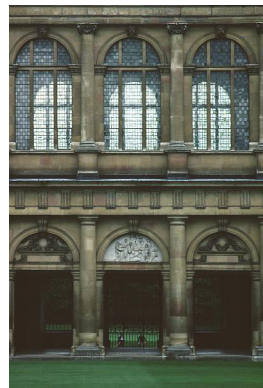

Wren Library

The library was completed in 1695 to the design of Sir Christopher Wren, who was responsible for the design of the building and also for the bookcases and furniture. Features of special interest include the decorative wood-carving by Grinling Gibbons, the marble busts of eminent Trinity men carved by Roubiliac and Scheemakers, the statue of Lord Byron by Bertel Thorvaldsen, and the south facing painted glass window by Giovanni Battista Cipriani. There are six exhibition cases in which a small fraction of the library's treasures are on display.

Floor plan, elevation, section and other details.

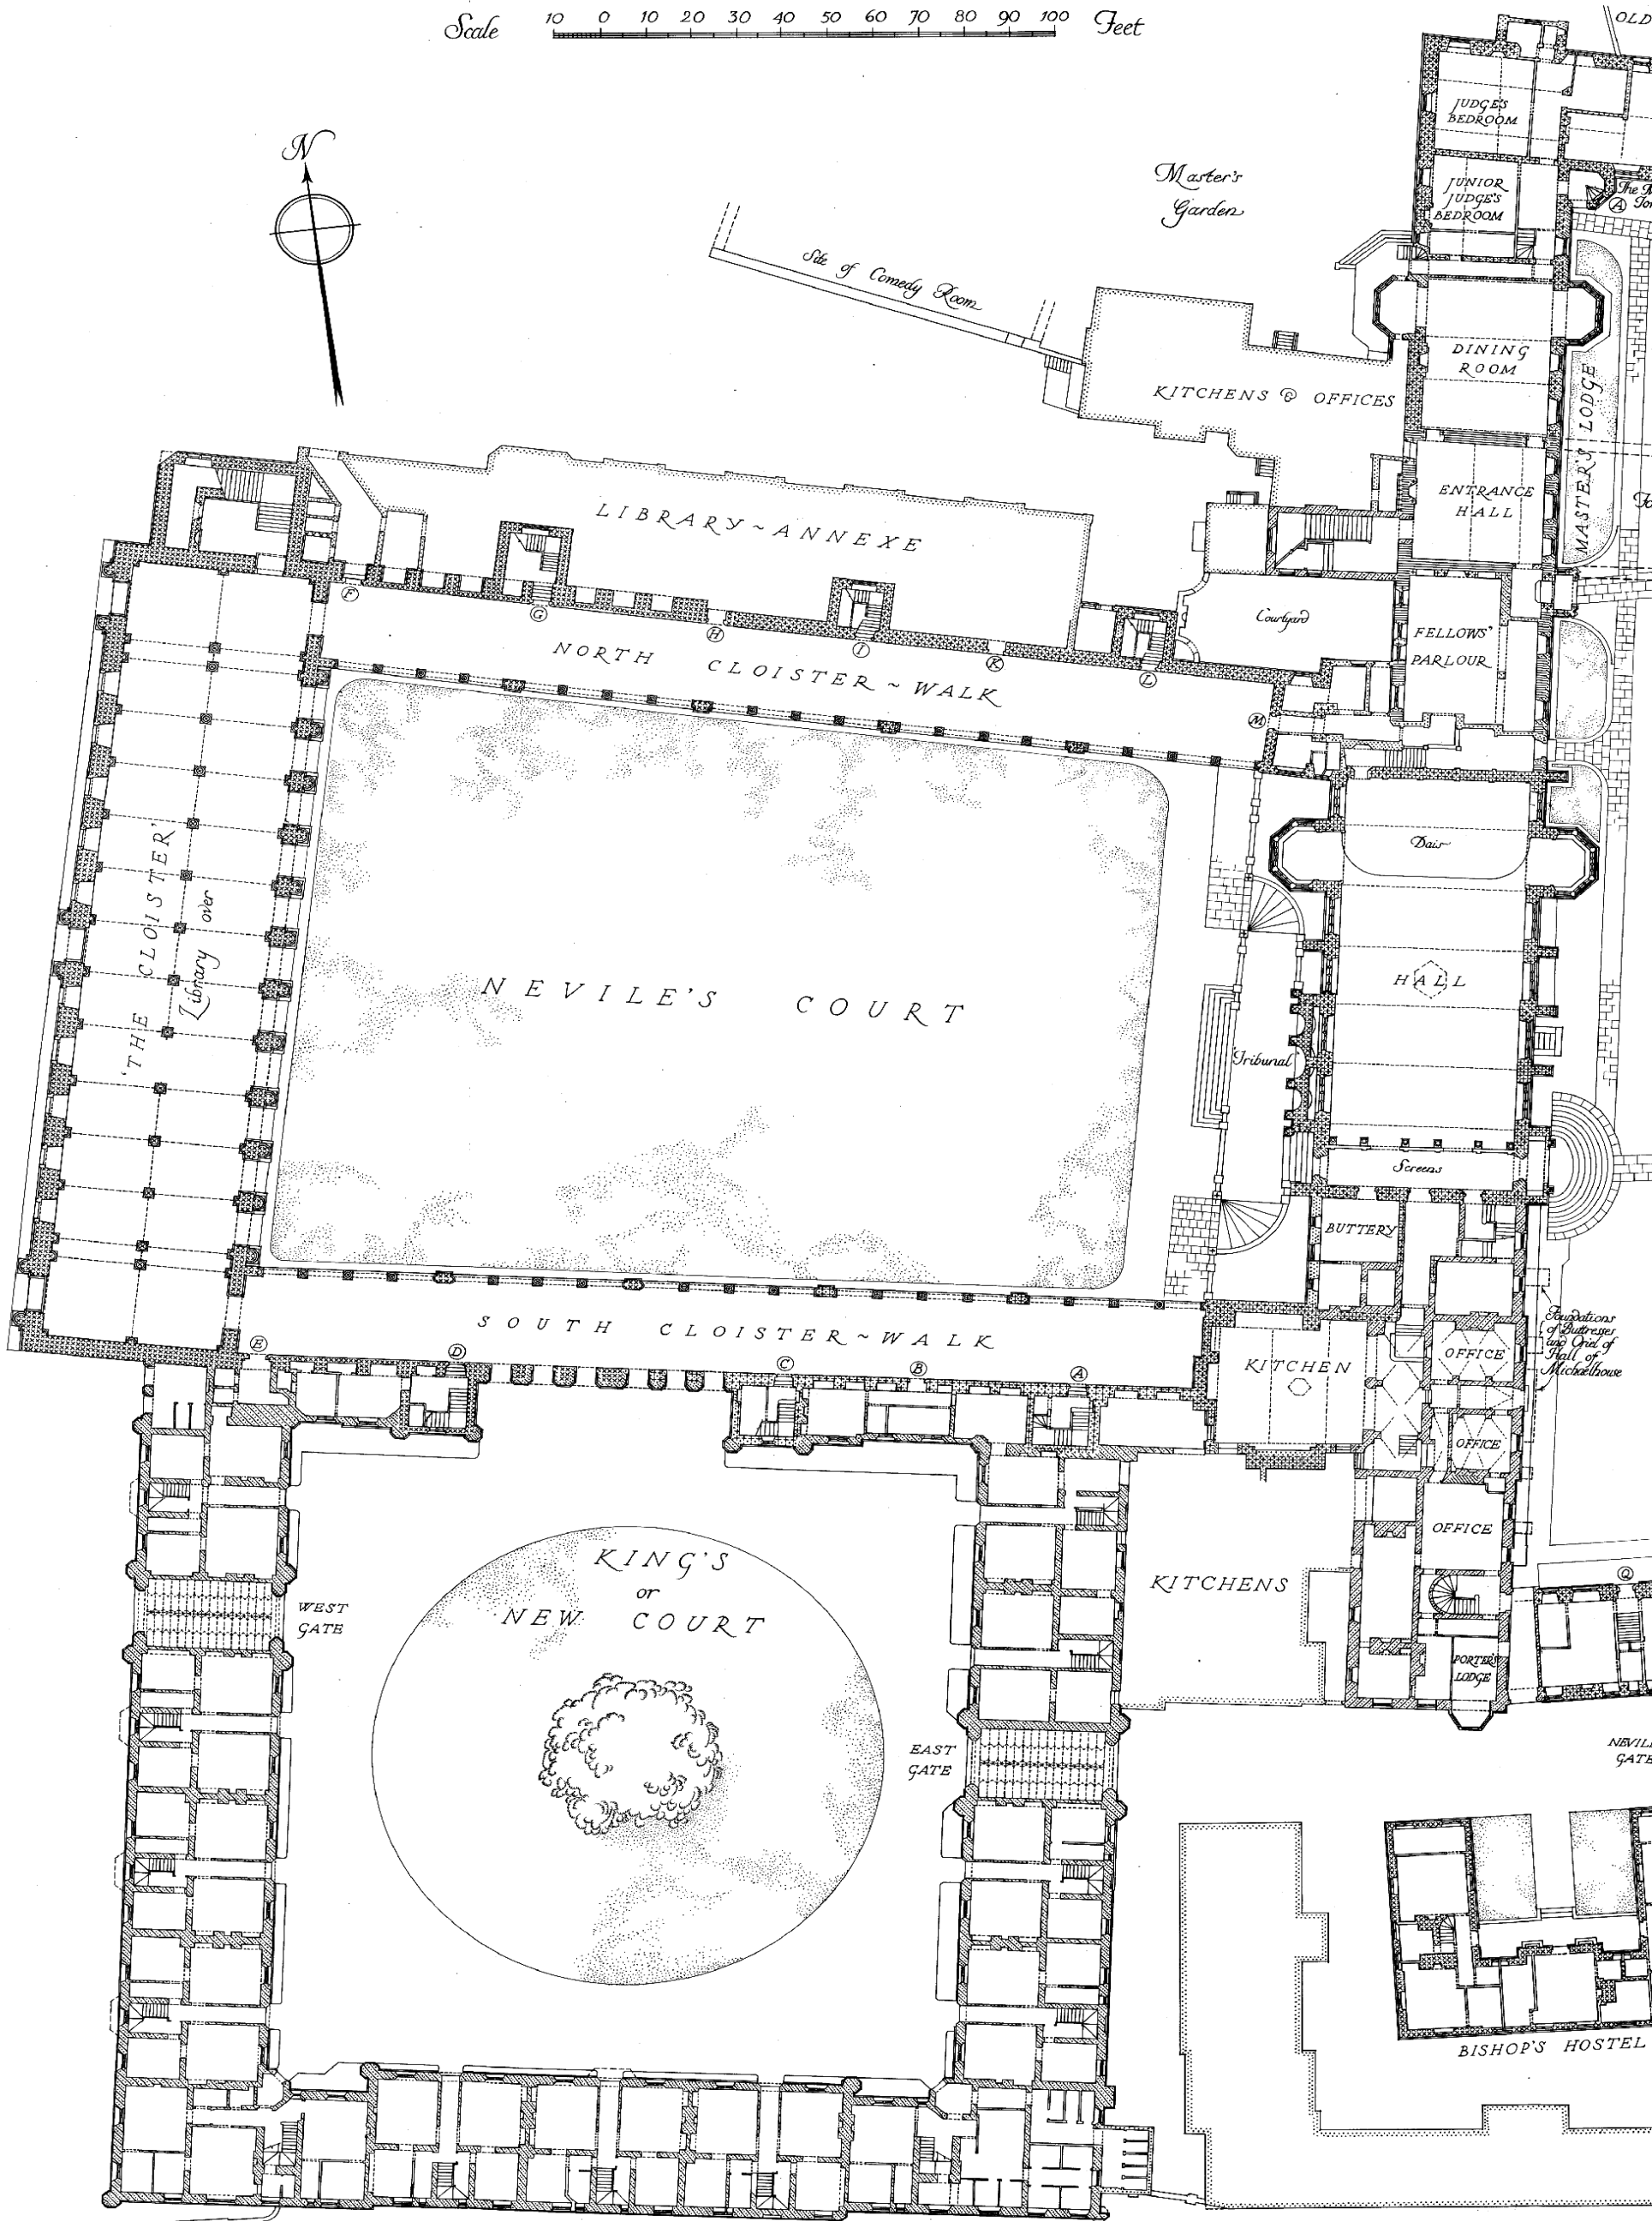

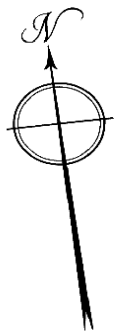

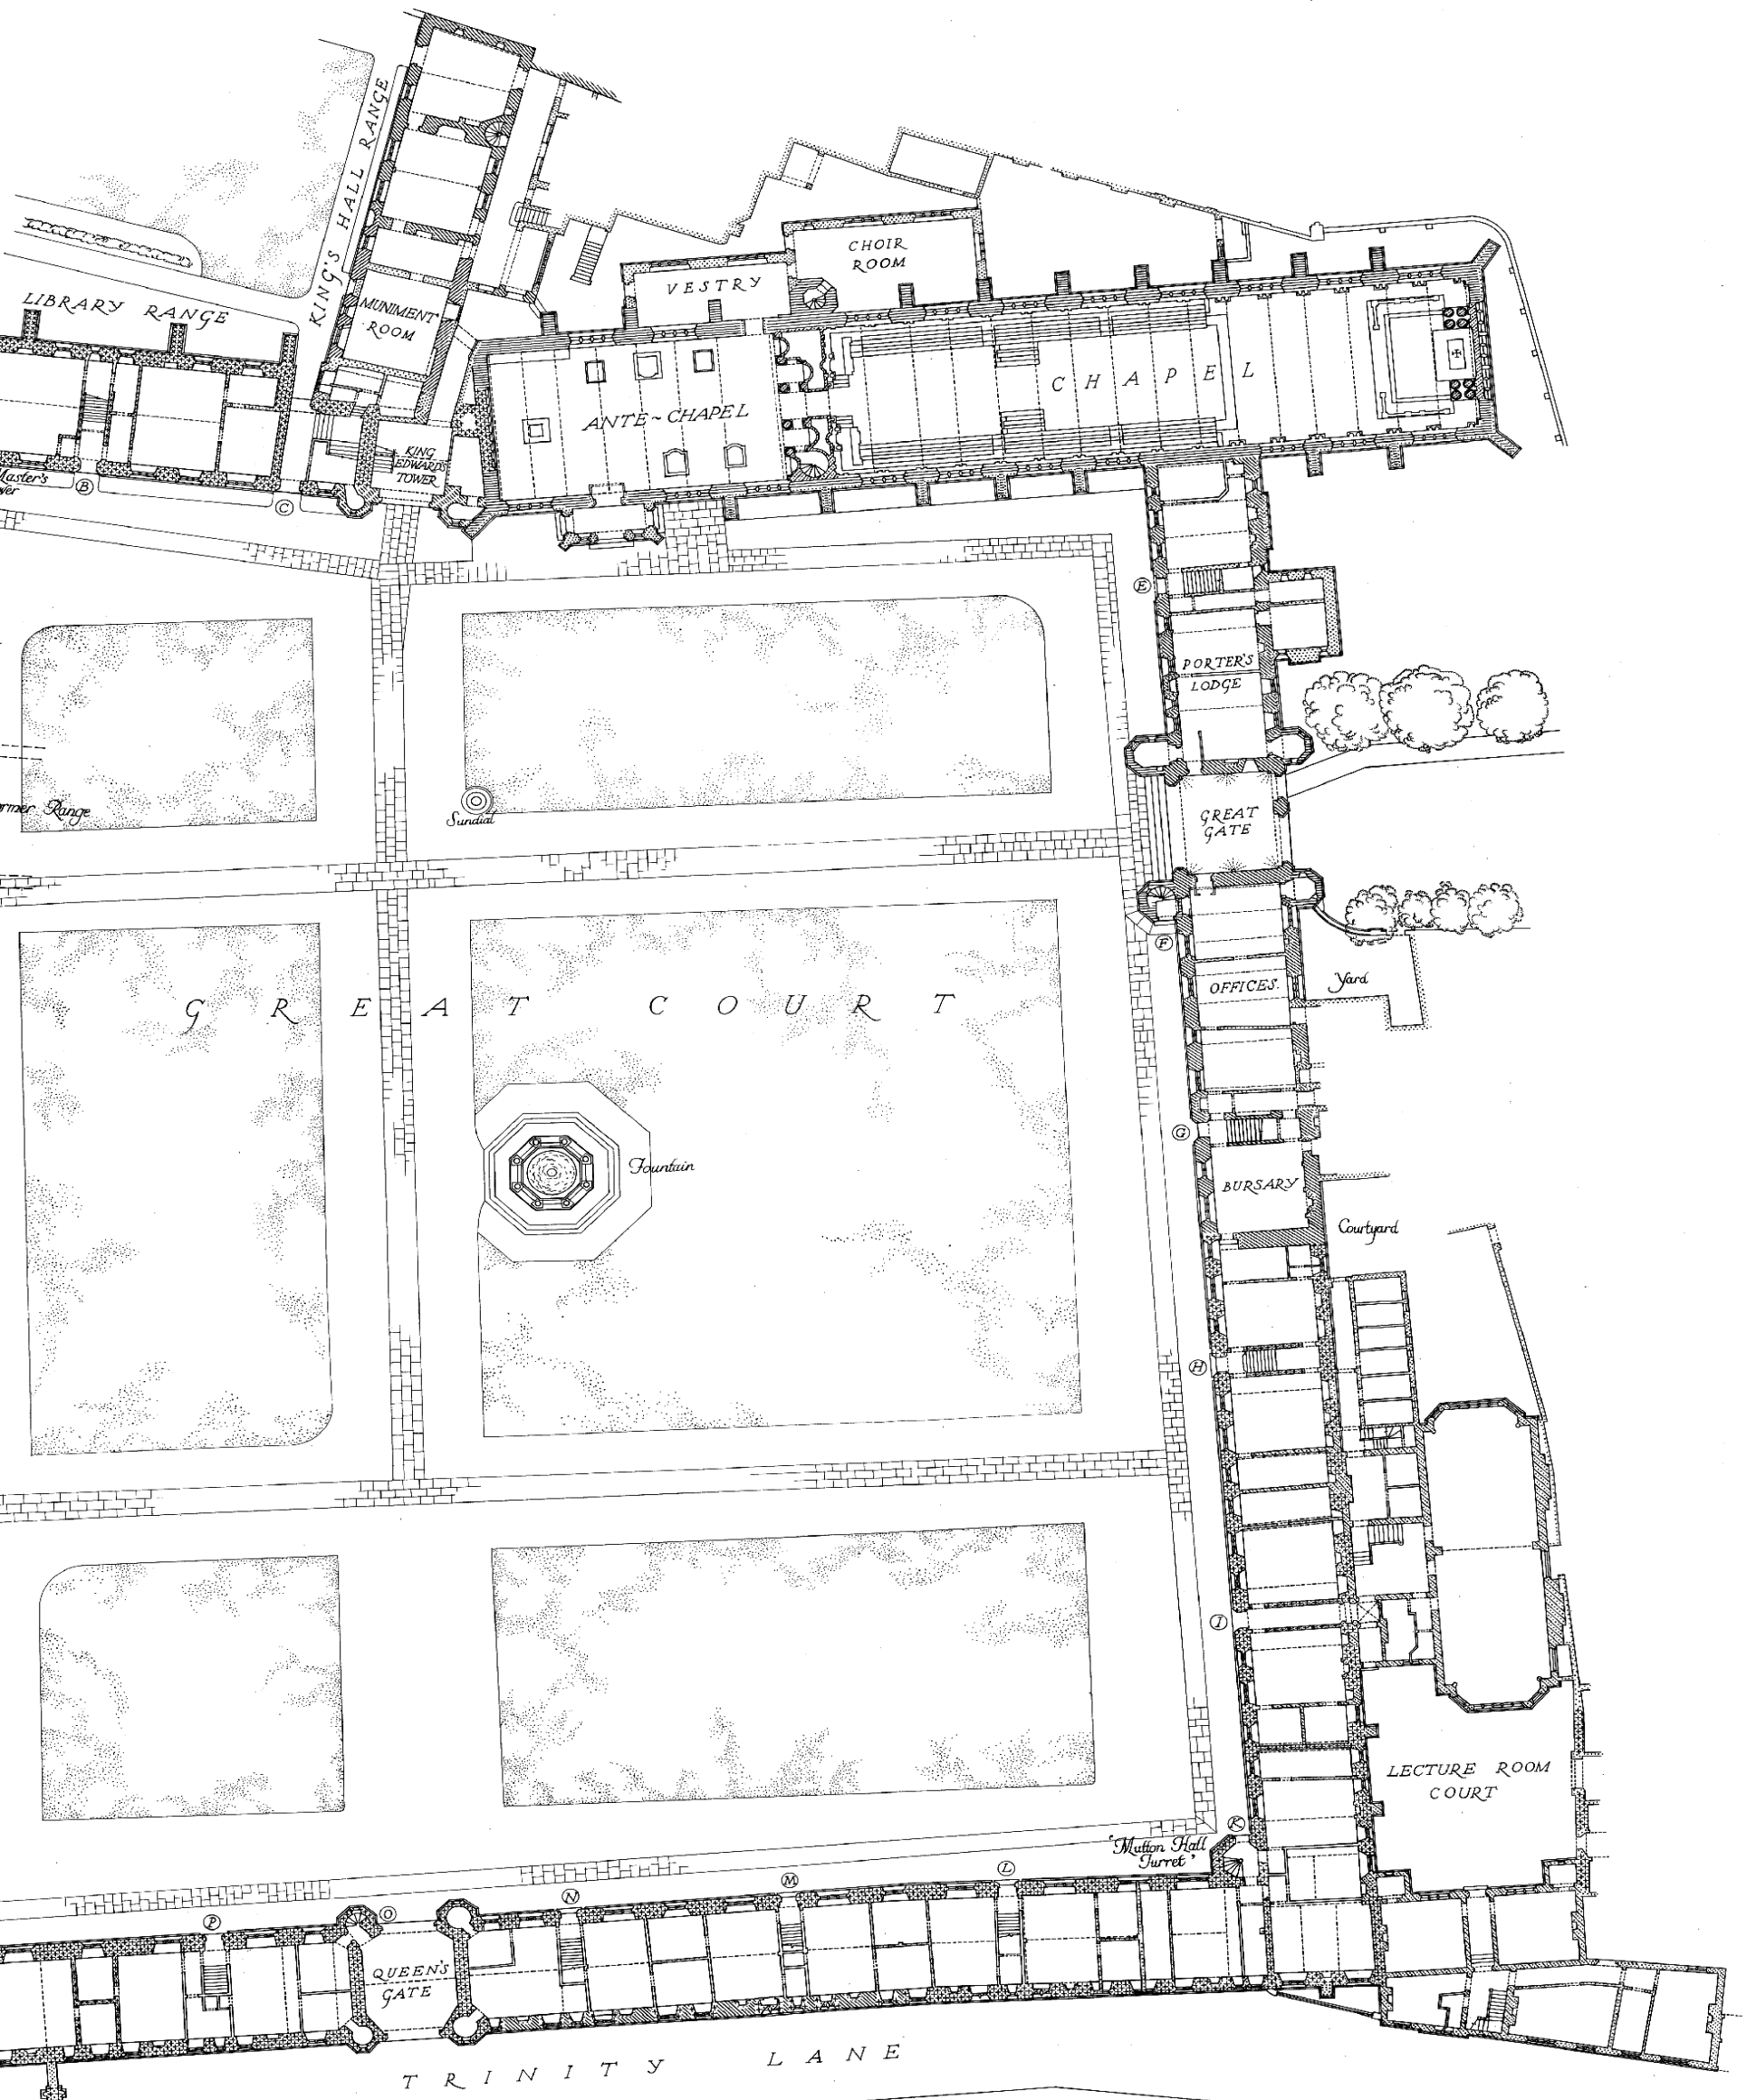

▨ Late 17th Century ▨ Modern
TRINITY COLLEGE
LIBRARY

TRINITY COLLEGE

Scale 10 0 10 20 30 40 50 60 70 80 90 100 Feet

- | | | | |
|---|---------------------------------------|--|----------------------------|
|  | 14TH CENTURY |  | 1593 ~ 1615 (Rebuilt) |
|  | 15TH CENTURY |  | LATE 17TH CENTURY |
|  | 15TH CENTURY (Rebuilt) |  | 18TH CENTURY |
|  | 16TH CENTURY |  | 19TH CENTURY (Before 1850) |
|  | 1593 ~ 1615 Dr. Thomas Nevile, Master |  | AFTER 1850 |

TRINITY HALL LANE