

COMD 4900 Internship Entry 7: Role Models at work

In regards to my previous assignments, I am slowly but surely working on revisions as I am sent back feedback for them. In regards to the internship there are other people in which I socialize with but I feel that I can relate to Mr. Garcia a little more. He's laid back and can have a good conversation for hours (He insists I call him by his first name "Dave"), and I feel like we indirectly have the same goals. His passion has always been video games , as he is a game designer, and while he wants to continue to work on them he one day wishes to have a gaming store of his own. I also wish to have a store of my own (not gaming but hobby store) similar to galaxy but with an edge and dark aesthetic to it while also designing. I feel like when we have a meeting of the minds in regards to design we can always bounce ideas off of each other which really gets the creative juices flowing and that's what I enjoy about interning here. Below I left an image of the Game "River City Girls" a game he worked on where he served as one of the character designers.
