

The meaning for this design is that we are all the same in some way. We have may have come from a different background but we were all made the same. We are all human and that is all that we will be and have always have been.