

Nelema Cona
MKT 2300

Dunkin' Cereal

This cereal is produced with genuine Dunkin' Donuts coffee. People who enjoy drinking coffee will also definitely enjoy eating this coffee cereal. It's an entirely new way to savor the flavor of your favorite Dunkin' Donuts coffee!

Dunkin' Donuts and Post Consumer Brands collaborated in July 2020 to launch two new cereal tastes produced with authentic Dunkin' Donuts coffee. The Dunkin' Caramel Macchiato and Mocha Latte cereals, which are now available in stores all across the country, were inspired by Dunkin' Donuts consumers' favorite flavors. Those cereal boxes cost around $3.98 for a 17-ounce box. Because people drink coffee and eat cereal in the morning, Dunkin' Donuts made it easier and more convenient to combine the two. The goal of this cereal is for Dunkin' Donuts coffee flavor to be mixed into the cereal bits to deliver optimum coffee flavor in each mouthful.

A bowl of one of these cereals isn't the same as a cup of coffee because it contains a bit of caffeine. Each serving contains less than 10 milligrams of caffeine, which is equivalent to many big sips of coffee (or about a tenth of a cup). Because it is so sweet, people between the ages of 16 and 35 would like this cereal. I will not recommend it to baby boomers or generation X since it may be harmful to their health, such as diabetes or heart problems, because it is very sweet.

Because it contains caffeine, it will provide you with a boost of energy in the morning to help you get through your day. Since this cereal is best for younger and healthy people, it would make you feel more energized.

References:

<https://news.dunkindonuts.com/blog/dunkin-post-cereal-story-behind>

Blog post: "The Story Behind Dunkin's Cereals". March 07, 2021

<https://www.today.com/food/dunkin-just-released-2-coffee-flavored-cereals-caffeine-t187470>

Walansky, Aly. "Dunkin' just released 2 coffee-flavored cereals with caffeine". July 28, 2020

<https://www.godairyfree.org/product-reviews/dunkin-cereal-post>

FLEMING, ALISA. "Dunkin' Cereal Dishes Up Your Dairy-Free Morning Mocha or Macchiato". AUGUST 24, 2020