To Dr. Rita Y. Doh,

New York City College of Technology is a fine institute for higher learning. We have a wide variety of degree programs that one can find a great career in such as Graphic Design and Advertising Arts (ADGA). We do our best to provide our students with the proper skills and understanding to earn a promising career after graduating. Our professors offer the best skill from firsthand experience and teach with the desire to help student have a real career. The goal here at City Tech is to help student get the career they want and not just attend school for a diploma. To achieve this goal it is required for student to take part in a mandatory internship.

Internships are a requirement for several important reasons. Students having the chance to work alongside graphic designers in the work place today is a great learning experience. This can also teach students discipline and hard work. The requirements of this program demands students to have a “B” or better in four classes in the area of the internship, must involve substantive work supervised by a qualified workplace mentor and 100 hours minimum at workplace. Having interns also benefits the employers as well. Partnering with City Tech internship would be a great opportunity to get more skilled, equipped, talented and ready-to-work employers for a company.

In conclusion, partnering with New York City College of Technology Internships is a great benefit for both a company and the school. Doing so may give student good work experience and more knowledge on work in a field. Hopefully you decide to work with our interns.
