DAISY'S DINER

This local restaurant is clean, dimly lit for a nice at-home feel and cushy booth seating. They have a variety of dishes including massive breakfast platters, burgers, steaks, amazing milkshakes, and a variety of sandwiches. My personal favorite thing to pick up while I visit is a fresh cup of coffee and a sirloin steak with potatoes and vegetables. The decoration includes the lighting which is perfect for setting the mood on dates or that one meal that will compensate for a long and busy day. It's one of Park Slope's many hidden gems.

PETEY'S BURGER

Peteys Burger is the best, affordable, burger spot. If you do not want to spend a fortune on Bareburger, a few blocks up, Petey's Burger is a fast food place you definitely want to go eat at. The prices are very fair for how much food you get. The combo meals at a minimum, are about eight dollars, and higher up depending on which type of burger you buy. Without a doubt, the burger and fries combo, with drink, fill you up, until your next meal. When it comes to the number of fries you get alone, there are so much fries that it can barely fit the container it put in. If you'd like a dessert, their milkshakes are very flavorful

LUCKY STAR

Lucky Star is a small but nice Chinese restaurant. The food there is great, the service is nice. It has a cozy feeling when you walk inside. A very simple interior, many choices of food to pick from. You can even see them cook your food while you wait. I always have a hard time picking what I would like to order. Especially when I decide to be daring and try something new. Sometimes I'll order Crispy Fried Chicken in garlic sauce which has a slight spice and sweet to it. Even an order of Fried Dumplings is just as good. Their Home-made Ice Tea makes a great combo with the food. So, if you want to pass by or just order online and enjoy their food comfortably at home.

BAROLO

Barolo Restaurant and Garden brings to you the flavors and the food of the beautiful wine region of Barolo in northern Italy. Walking down West Broadway, the main Avenue of New York's fashionable Soho district, among the fine boutiques and art galleries, you will notice the spacious front of Ristorante Barolo. Paolo Secondo, the owner of Barolo Restaurant, started his business in his native city, Genoa, Italy. In 1980, he bought a local old wine bar and restaurant and renamed it I Tre Merli. Buoyed by the success of his first establishment, he decided to export the concept to the United States. After I Tre Merli in New York, Secondo opened Barolo and several other restaurants.
