

Funded Summer Research Fellowship

The Brooklyn Waterfront Research Center (BWRC) is now accepting proposals from full-time City Tech faculty wishing to apply for a research fellowship for Summer 2020. The proposal can originate from any discipline, but the research project must be related to the Brooklyn waterfront. Creative and interdisciplinary projects are welcomed.

A successful proposal will present a 300-500 word summary of the research project, including:

- rationale for the research
- relevance to the work of the BWRC
- connection to your teaching and/or other research activities
- brief project timeline
- stage of the research (if already begun)
- collaborators (if applicable)

The BWRC Research Fellow will be expected to:

- provide a midsummer progress report
- submit a final research paper or a multimedia product to be published on the Center's website by September 1, 2020.
- present the results of the research at a BWRC event at the beginning of the Fall 2020 semester.

The fellowship will carry a $2,000 stipend to support the Fellow's research. The fellowship will begin May 1 and end September 30, 2020.

Proposals will be reviewed by members of BWRC's advisory board as well as staff. Proposals should be submitted, along with a current CV, as a PDF file attachment with the subject title "BWRC Fellowship" to: Richard E. Hanley, Director, Brooklyn Waterfront Research Center ghanley@citytech.cuny.edu by March 16, 2020.

An announcement of the fellowship award will be made at the BWRC Annual Conference on April 24, 2020.
