Final Reflection

As a writer and a reader i've learned to actually take the time and initiative to write essays well how to actually make sure your making your work the best possible way and ever since i've discovered to pass this class and be the best possible writer you need to learn how to find valuable information and put down on the page to make it your own not what it says on google where you copy and paste. In this course I've learned how to make words my own without just copying them from the internet so in the end you really challenge yourself to be the best writer you can possibly be and a way to express yourself and learn valuable information along the way.

I've developed as a reader and a writer by actually taking the time to read what was assigned to me, when I was back in highschool and middle school I usually skimmed through the passage I was assigned to read and figure out what was going on based on what little parts I've read and try to briefly understand what was going on and because of that sometimes I would be right and get a passing grade and sometimes I would be completely lost and failed but in this class, since the next day we were going to talk about it the next day I forcefully had to read the passages some of them were boring but others were really interesting to me so I started to like to read what I was assigned and as a writer when it came to writing sometimes I would like to write on my own accord but when I was back in highschool they made me write about topics that I frankly don't care for but here in this english class for my projects I got to write what I wanted and It made writing more fun and interesting that I actually wanted to write and for it to be perfect and up to date on what I was talking about or the things that I was writing my project about and because of that it made writing and english far more interesting that I wanted to continue to be in the class.

What i've learned in class is make sure you hand in your projects in time,and to enjoy the idea of reading and writing especially if you picked the topic and if your passionate about it to give it your all cause if you don't and if you half it you wont get a good grade and will most likely fail the semester. So if you truly put you heart and your dedication in your writing then it will show and you will be rewarded for the work that you put in and if you are given feedback make sure to take it with open arms because that will gradually approve your grade overall since now you know what you need to do in order to improve your writing skills overall and how to in general become a better writer or the best writer in you capability and by paying attention and focusing on your work can truly go a long way on how you can improve. And since we are in college most assignments are based on writing on what you know and writing reports to show your understanding. For example, Recently I got an assignment to do a report on colorectal cancer and I used the knowledge and skills that I have learned and developed to write and search for information.

When conducting my writing and seeing the topic I chose about antarctica I saw and learned how truly dangerous it could be if we didn't do anything to help slow down the process of climate change when it comes to the Photo Essay I did I saw just how badly we affected the earth and the timelapse of the continent warming at an alarming rate is truly concerning to anybody that cares and how we need to open our eyes and do research on how to stop the ice and the warming of the continent, and by doing this we can save ourselves the trouble of what will happen if we don't do anything to help.
