Title: Early Marriage in Bangladesh

Introduction: I am from Bangladesh, and I was there to see these moments although I am not really proud about that. I am talking about early marriage in society where they believe it is the right thing to do. Things might be getting better but not up to the mark as expected. In Bangladesh early marriage is still very common. And this is what I am still trying to see why early marriage is out there in Bangladesh. Through my research I tried to show the stats, reasons and the life experience of people.

Body: As you can see a young boy and a girl getting married. It is not like this is happening in a secret place. In case many people attended the wedding as you can see. Next slide you can see the status of Bangladesh. This is really shameful if we talk about a country like Bangladesh. Girls are getting married at a very early age. One of the biggest reasons is because their families are poor so parents do not want to educate their daughters. Because they cannot bring money when they grow up. As a result, they try to get rid of their daughters as soon as possible. Because they are not educated, they could not be able to be independent either. Early marriage and they also get pregnant early. As a result, they started to pick up many problems because of very young age. Even their ability to give birth to a baby is unsafe but under family pressure They had to agree to this kind of decision. And after that there is violence in society. After the early marriage they suffer many domestic violence. From her husband or from his family.

Whether her family is not giving the dowry money, or she is not serving them well so they get aggressive with her. Whatever the reason it is wrong. Many times, this kind of situation leads to suicide. In the next slide you can see the change of rule from government of Bangladesh Recently. They changed it for the worse. Even before they become adults, they will be married legally. They will have no say. Instead of taking a step forward Bangladesh government took a step backwards. Many criticize about the new rule but only criticizing is not enough in some matters. That is when social service workers need to do their job. People who are educated they should think about the nation's future. Who are still not aware of that they should be alarmed about the situation.

Conclusion: Despite everything there is still hope for the people. Many social services have come together in recent years. But they have not reached up to the level yet. They claimed people are not really into this. Many people just do not think it is something that they should be care about. Thinking needs to be changed in society about early marriage. Women who are suffering they need help from both society and government.
