Final Reflection
eng

In this semester I have learned many new things about myself as a reader and writer. I have gained more quality knowledge on how to become a good reader and writer. As a writer I have learned how to form structure in my sentences, fixed my grammar and learned how to write in MLA style. In high school, I struggled to write research papers, references, bibliography and much more. This class has taught me how to write quality papers, such as the research paper that we wrote for our project. In a research paper I had to find scholarly articles that related to my topic and have them agree or disagree with my thesis. Moreover, I learned how to write page numbers and provide a title for my writing assignments. I have improved much more than I think because in high school I would get average scores for my writing assignment whereas, in college I am getting good feedback on my writing assignments. I gained much knowledge from before and would be delighted to enhance my work even more. As for my grammar, it has become much better than before. I always struggled to stay on topic, however, this class and the professor taught me to stay on topic and improve my paragraphs. As a reader I have learned how to read articles, highlight important information and read abstracts. I noticed that scholarly articles were hard to read, however I understand that scholarly articles have an abstract which summarizes the information written in the article overall.

As a reader and writer I have developed many new skills this semester. For instance I learned new writing skills such as creating a powerpoint on my own. I have always done group work when it came to creating powerpoints, but I decided to do the multimodal project which required powerpoint. I created the powerpoint all on my own, which was very interesting because I played around with the background, added slides and imported pictures. Also it's very beneficial for me to learn how to work on powerpoint because in the future I will know what to do. Moreover, I have changed as a writer because I have gained more skills and learned how to write in MLA style. For instance I learned how to structure my paragraphs, indent my starting sentence and much more.

In this class I have learned many new things that I can transfer to other writing tasks and assignments in the future. For instance I learned how to write research papers and provide sources for my research paper. This will be very beneficial to me in college because I plan on majoring in psychology, and will have to write many papers in the future. In psychology you need to do your research, make observations, use statistics and much more. This English class gave me a head start for my psychology degree because it taught me how to write quality research papers, find scholarly articles and write references. Moreover, the information that I was taught in this class is useful for my future because English is used in psychology research. For instance when I become a caseworker, I will have to write about my patients and their analysis. During that time, I will know what to write about and how to write because of this class. This English class provides basic knowledge that everyone needs to know about. In general english will help you long term because every class requires to have proper grammar and no run on sentences
