Final Reflection

First of all, I just want to say that I really enjoyed the last couple of months here this semester. I learned new things here in this class. Now that semester is about to finish, I think I can talk about my learning outcome. I will be very honest that I am not a fan of reading books. But for classes I read different articles, newspapers, magazines and watched some videos to do the research work. I felt that I was not really comfortable of reading something for a long time. For example, when I was doing the research, there was an article, and it took me two days to get it done. But I think I like to express myself more and I like to write. I am not a critical thinker or not a writer either. I am more of a person who uses simple writing style and think straight.

This semester I made myself familiar with different types of writing styles. Some things I used to know from my previous semester, but I was not really good at it. I think I did it better than the previous semester. Which is a very positive thing for me. Now I am confident about the subject. I understand the concept how to do it. For example, annotated bibliography is a good way of showing it. I did better than the last time and way of doing it also much better. The reason I am saying it is because as we know we do research for annotated bibliography and look for various sources. Yes, maybe we do not use all kinds of sources but when we read them, we eventually get to learn new things about something that interests us. Some details we use for our writing and some we keep a side. I think that is how I also understand one thing that we do not need to only look for one source, but we can also use some details from other sources which are similar to and have credibility. That way I learn a new way of doing research better. And I can use that in the future as well for my improvement. I felt I could change my writing style if needed in the future. Because I did good here in the class which gives me confidence.

The thing I learned from this semester is I can use the skills in the future in my work or in my future studies. I can say how to the MLA (Modern Language Association) citation properly. I have other subjects as well where I needed MLA citations to use. Because I learn it here properly, I can use my learning over there as well. I did MLA citations even before. But I was not confident enough after I did. But this time I think I did the work, and I was pretty confident about my work. Professor always used to give us time before any assignments she wanted us to do. Which was very helpful. I got enough time to do things always and did not have to take any stress throughout the semester. I always have time to proofread my work. I would like to add one more thing that I learned is that proof reading is really helpful. I am not a person who likes to read his own work after writing. But I did proof reading in this class. Maybe that's because I understand it is kind of important because we can always make sure everything is going the way we wanted. In the end I would like to thank you Professor. I know what I learned from you deserve more than a thank you but still I want to say thank you.
