Many times we think that college is fast and an easy path and not so expensive, unfortunately many students are hit by reality, paying thousands of dollars in a career that in the end they may not like or that they do not earn a living with. The government seems not interested in this since many students are not interested in educating themselves and improving themselves educationally thanks to the ridiculously expensive prices, I have met so many individuals who would like to graduate but in the end it just feels like climbing a mountain of money to "try" to be able to do something with all that.
